This was the scene in a Romanian airport yesterday as workers headed to Germany. As we know, seasonal workers from Eastern Europe have already made their way to Britain. As I have said for many weeks — flying people in without a period of quarantine would be disastrous.

MEDICAL DOCTORS QUESTIONING CORONAVIRUS (ongoing)

Note: Director-General of WHO, Ethiopian Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus is the first WHO D-G who is not a medical doctor. He holds an undergraduate degree in biology, a masters degree in immunology of infectious diseases and a PhD in community health.

Questioning Conventional Wisdom in the COVID-19 Crisis, with Dr. Jay Bhattacharya of the Hoover Institution: The official virus narrative is false: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=UO3Wd5urg0&feature=emb\_logo

Dr. Jay Bhattacharya is a professor of medicine at Stanford University. He is a research associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research and a senior fellow at both the Stanford Institute for Economic Policy Research and the Stanford Freeman Spogli Institute. His March 24, 2020, article in the Wall Street Journal questions the premise that "coronavirus would kill millions without shelter-in-place orders and quarantines." In the article he suggests that "there's little evidence to confirm that premise—and projections of the death toll could plausibly be orders of magnitude too high." In this edition of Uncommon Knowledge with Peter Robinson we asked Dr. Bhattacharya to defend that statement and describe to us how he arrived at this conclusion. We get into the details of his research, which used data collected from hotspots around the world and his background as a doctor, a medical researcher, and an economist. It's not popular right now to question conventional wisdom on sheltering in place, but Dr. Bhattacharya makes a strong case for challenging it, based in economics and science.

Dr. Scott Jensen explains that the CDC's present guidelines for determining "COVID-19 deaths" are not evidence-based, and may even have to do with the greater profitability of doing so. COVID-19 is not a pneumonia-like disease at all. It's an oxygen deprivation condition, and the use of ventilators may be doing more harm than good with some patients. The ventilators themselves, due to the high-pressure methods they are running, may be damaging the lungs and leading to widespread harm of patients. "In these nine days I have seen things I have never seen before," he says.

Lee

(UK) Dr. John Lee, retired professor of pathology and a former consultant pathologist for UK's National Health Service, reiterates in an article that "Covid-19 deaths are a substantial over-estimate", and that "the measured increase in numbers of deaths is not necessarily a cause for alarm, unless it demonstrates excess deaths [emphasis mine] – 340 deaths out of 46,000 shows we are not near this at present."

Lohse

"The director of the University Medical Center Hamburg, Dr. Ansgar Lohse, demands a quick end to curfews and contact bans. He argues that more people should be infected with corona. Kitas and schools should be reopened as soon as possible so that children and their parents can become immune through infection with the corona virus. The continuation of the strict measures would lead to an economic crisis, which would also cost lives, [emphasis mine] said the physician.' #### Pall

Dr. Martin Pall, Professor Emeritus of Biochemistry and Basic Medical Sciences at Washington State University

(US) NEW 22.3.20 - Argument for a 5G – COVID-19 Epidemic Causation Mechanism by Martin Pall, PhD: <https://electromagnetichealth.org/electromagnetic-health-blog/5g-covid-19-epidemic/>

Prof. Em. Pall offers the theory that the suppression of the immune system by exposure to 5G towers could weaken the body and increase the detrimental effect of CoViD-19.

"The question that is being raised here is not whether 5G is responsible for the virus, but rather whether 5G radiation, acting via VGCC activation may be exacerbating the viral replication or the spread or lethality of the disease. Let's backtrack and look at the recent history of 5G in Wuhan in order to get some perspective on those questions. An Asia Times article, dated Feb. 12, 2019 (<https://www.asiatimes.com/2019/02/article/china-to-launch-first-5g-smart-highway>) stated that there were 31 different 5G base stations (that is antennae) in Wuhan at the end of 2018. There were plans developed later such that approximately 10,000 5G antennae would be in place at the end of 2019, with most of those being on 5G LED smart street lamps. The first such smart street lamp was put in place on May 14, 2019 (www.china.org.cn/china/2019-05/14/content\_74783676.htm), but large numbers only started being put in place in October, 2019, such that there was a furious pace of such placement in the last 2 ½ months of 2019. These findings show that the rapid pace of the coronavirus epidemic developed at least roughly as the number of 5G antennae became extraordinarily high. So we have this finding that China's 1st 5G smart city and smart highway is the epicenter of this epidemic and this finding that the epidemic only became rapidly more severe as the numbers of 5G antennae skyrocketed.

... "It is my opinion, therefore, that 5G radiation is greatly stimulating the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic and also the major cause of death, pneumonia and therefore, an important public health measure would be to shut down the 5G antennae."

<https://thesaker.is/interview-with-professor-didier-raoult-in-the-parisien-newspaper-22-march-2020/>

...The problem in this country is that the people that talk are abysmally ignorant. I did a scientific study of Chloroquine and viruses, which was published, thirteen years ago. Since then four other studies by other authors have shown that Coronavirus responds to Chloroquine. None of that is new.

That the group of decision makers do not even know about the latest science takes my breath away. We knew about the potential effect of Chloroquine on cultured viral samples. It was known that it was an effective antiviral.

We decided in our experiments to add a course of treatment of azithromycine (an antibiotic used against bacterial pneumonia – ed).

When we added azithromycine to hydrochloroquine, in treating patients suffering from Covid-19, the results were spectacular. ...

Our stand:

- Governors and mayors across the country have taken unprecedented action by restricting the movement of healthy individuals, closing places of worship and public spaces, and interfering with business by ordering them to close their doors.
- There is a growing realization that government-imposed orders intended to contain the spread of the coronavirus are creating widespread devastation.
- One in four Americans has lost either part or all of their income since the end of March, and the GDP has fallen by 24 percent.
- US data shows that the case fatality rate might be as low as 0.1% — in other words, akin to the mortality rate of a severe seasonal flu. Ninety percent of those who are severely affected have an underlying health condition.
- Cases in which COVID-19 are merely suspected to be a cause of death are being recorded as official COVID-19 deaths.
- Americans are wondering how long they will be required to comply with orders that force healthy individuals to indefinitely stay at home and businesses deemed as “non-essential” to stay closed.
- Individuals are capable of taking precautions to avoid COVID-19. Those who are vulnerable or who have COVID-19 should stay home, but healthy individuals need to return to work so that our jobs, our economy and our well-being are not destroyed.
- It's time to stand and request commonsense policies that protect the vulnerable while restoring individuals' livelihoods and mitigating the repercussions of an indefinite shutdown. Email your governor and mayor NOW to urge them to lift the stay-at-home orders for healthy individuals.

7.4.20 – In Russian - Igor Panarin: World Politics #164. Are Bill Gates arrested for coronavirus?: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1UXLOZGAXoA&t=187s>

The American press has enough material that Bill Gates is directly involved in the development of Coronavirus. Coronavirus was prepared in three countries: the USA, Great Britain and Australia. The experiments were conducted in Ukraine and Georgia. The center in Wuhan was funded by Soros. Coronavirus was prepared in 2015. In the 2019 financial report, biological defense funding came first and occupied 29% of all NATO programs. Why NATO is not afraid of the coronavirus. How real is the arrest of Gates. Trump's personal intelligence set about arresting pedophiles. Q-anon reports that the union of Putin and Trump is the salvation of the world. The arrest of one of the richest people in the world will show that the "deep state" has been hit, from which it will no longer recover.

15.4.20 - Where will the food come from?: https://www.wakingtimes.com/2020/04/15/where-will-the-food-come-from/?utm\_source=Waking+Times+Newsletter&utm\_medium=email&utm\_campaign=0ac6b23e79-RSS\_EMAIL\_CAMPAIGN&utm\_term=0\_25f1e048c1-0ac6b23e79-54797653 ... Normally, about half of all U.S. food and agricultural products end up in direct to consumer markets including supermarkets, grocery and retail stores. The other half is purchased and distributed by the wholesale commercial and food service sector.

This includes restaurants, schools, institutions, and the hospitality industry (including hotels, resorts, cruise ships, all primarily driven by tourism). The shut-down of many non-essential businesses, the closure of schools and universities and the issuance of stay-at-home orders and travel bans in states across the country have caused the demand for food products normally distributed through the commercial supply chain to come to a grinding halt. At the same time, the demand for food products in the grocery/retail sector has soared with some distribution warehouses running at 200% to 500% their average capacity for this time of year<sup>[1]</sup>. This extreme shift in demand and our inability to swiftly adapt our established distribution and supply chains to it is what currently poses the greatest threat to the food supply in the U.S. ...

What action can be taken on a local/regional level by small businesses, local producers and farms, and consumers?

1- Smaller food retailers such as bakeries, farm markets, and cafés can help by sourcing, stocking, and offering perishable food products that have been running short at grocery stores. Many of these establishments have begun to offer more grocery products along with prepared meals and baked goods. Many small businesses are also successfully adapting by offering more delivery capabilities and by leveraging improved social media marketing and online ordering systems.

2- Small and local farms can also leverage opportunities to sell directly to consumers in their local communities. Some small farms are adapting by selling fresh produce and perishable foods in their local communities by offering no-touch deliveries and drive through pick-ups. Some local farmers are even partnering with each other to offer regular boxed deliveries that contain a variety of goods including, meats, eggs, produce, dairy products, and even baked goods all sourced from local farms and businesses. [7]

3- Restaurants should adapt to grocery sales, sales of bulk ready-made meals and should adapt to radically different pricing structures. Mid to high end restaurants should adapt to lower price bulk food. Margins will be significantly lower but if done right sales volume could increase. Some estimates say 70% of restaurants could go out of business. Survive however you can, be it deliveries, groceries or low cost bulk meal preparation.

What can consumers do?

1- Stock up on food as much as possible, buy canned goods, rice, beans, potatoes and other easy to store foods. Given the level of emergency and uncertainty we are in now 6–12 months of food for your family is reasonable. Do the math to calculate how much you need. As many have seen in recent weeks, you may eat more than you realize, especially with a family. If you are financially able, getting even more food is worthwhile. If you don't use it you can always sell or give away or donate it. Unfortunately the jobs and financial crisis will likely increase demand for food among the needy for a year or more.

2- Support the same local restaurants they normally would by ordering takeout when possible. Many communities are compiling lists of local businesses that are still open for takeout. These businesses have been some of the most effected by the shift in demand and by ordering takeout consumers can help provide some income to the restaurants, while also encouraging food resources to flow through the existing commercial supply chains.

3- Buy local, and when possible, directly from farmers, fishers etc. who are no longer able to sell to restaurant and local and regional farmers markets. Check to see if your local community has Facebook pages and/or groups which are helping to spread the word about what local food products are available from local farms and fishermen in your area. Because of how quickly local producers have had to adapt, many do not yet have online ordering systems and up to date websites, but many have set up social media pages where they are able to easily reach a large local audience, post daily what they have available, and even coordinate orders.[8] ...

18.4.20 - Systems biologist speaks out about Covid-19 response:

https://www.wakingtimes.com/2020/04/18/systems-biologist-speaks-out-about-covid-19-response/?utm\_source=Waking+Times+Newsletter&utm\_medium=email&utm\_campaign=16aa00c384-RSS\_EMAIL\_CAMPAIGN&utm\_term=0\_25f1e048c1-16aa00c384-54797653

Dr. Mercola - According to systems biologist Shiva Ayyadurai, Ph.D., the COVID-19 pandemic is being used to shift global wealth.

... Now that entire process does two things. First of all, we have I think 10 million unemployment claims in March alone. In addition to that, you have the fact that we're going to print money, which ... if you look, since 2008 and 2009, when quantitative easing started ... that has essentially been the biggest transfer of wealth — to the 0.01%, again.

It is essentially a weakened earning power and the [weakened value] of the dollar. So that's what's occurred. Now we have this COVID-19, and we have this economic overreaction, in my opinion, from the fear-mongering. In many ways, it reflects the immune system.

The immune system fundamentally wants to operate well for you and maintain homeostasis, and it's the overreaction of a weakened and dysfunctional immune system that causes harm. Similarly, when you look at it from the economic standpoint, we have this unbridled overreaction, in my view. [We're] not looking at what modern medicine is saying — that we should take a personalized medicine approach, right?

One size doesn't fit all. This is basically flatten the curve: Kick the can down the street. We're just going to wait until, when? Until the vaccine is produced or until a drug comes out. The assumption is that the immune system of all of us is equally weak. That's what this is based on. The assumption is that all of us are going to get it and all of us will suffer from it.

It's a very interesting model. Look at the person leading this health policy, Dr. Fauci. His background is from the pharmaceutical world ... [and] when you look at the NIH and the CDC, these organizations are heavily, heavily influenced by pharmaceutical companies.

In that environment, the model has always been never to discuss immune health, what we can do to support the immune system. It's always under the assumption that there's this big boogeyman, that the virus harms your body. Most medical doctors, again, they're victims of this education.

Many of them are taught the virus literally comes and attacks your body, and that a vaccine or a pharmaceutical intervention blocks it. It's not taught broadly that [the problem is that] the dysfunctional, weakened immune system is not running on all cylinders.

One part of it can overreact, and that overreaction is what goes in and attacks your own tissues. So, the issue is, we're not having a discussion at all in the media about 'How do you modulate that overreaction and support people's immune health?'"

Similarly, Ayyadurai notes, the economic collapse is "a result of precisely engineered governmental policies," even though those policies, superficially, appear to be in the public's best interest. ...

COVID-19 presently affects a tiny fraction of the global population — about 1.4 million cases out of a global population of 7.78 billion — and even with a death toll of 81,000 worldwide, COVID-19 has had a miniscule impact, having killed a mere 0.00001% of the population.

Don't get me wrong. Any death is tragic. But any given individual's risk of dying from the epidemics of diabetes, heart disease or cancer, for example, is greater than their risk of dying from COVID-19. Why is death from lifestyle-induced disease and environmental toxicity more preferable and acceptable than death from an infectious disease?

Dying from a preventable medical mistake is also a greater risk, as that kills up to 440,000 Americans every year. Where's the panic about that? Isn't the idea that conventional medicine kills 440,000 people a year terrifying?! 1 in 5 elderly patients are also injured by medical care. Where are the calls to protect our aging loved ones from this threat?

Were health policies more aligned with truth, we wouldn't have these chronic disease epidemics and far fewer people would die from preventable medical mistakes. More people would lead healthy lives were they properly informed about what's harmful and what's healthy.

Similarly, when it comes to COVID-19, there are simple strategies with which we can address this infection that does not require collapsing the global economy, creating unheard of unemployment and isolating everyone from human contact for weeks on end. You can find many articles detailing such strategies on my Coronavirus Resource Page. ...

Instead, everyone is being treated as though they're high risk for severe infection and death and therefore need to take identical precautions. So, what's really going on here?

"We have not said, 'Hey, let's shut down the economy to address the fact that we have skyrocketing obesity taking place, skyrocketing diabetes,'" Ayyadurai says. "So, the level of contradiction, the level of hypocrisy should wake up everyone to understand that there is another agenda.

There is another agenda afoot. I repeat what my mentor said: 'When things don't add up, take a step back and ask, what is the other agenda?' And the only thing in a common-sense way that reveals itself to me is power, profit and control. Power, profit and control." ...

The Power, Profit and Control Agenda

Like Ayyadurai, I believe the fearmongering is being used to suppress dissent, to crash the economy and to issue medical mandates. "If you look broadly, there were massive uprisings, antiestablishment uprisings [in different countries]. Well, they're all gone now. We don't even hear anything about them," Ayyadurai says.

He also believes this fearmongering and social isolation mandates will be used as a way to acclimatize people to accept state wants or what a few people deem is good for everyone. "That, I think, is the milieu being set up," he says. "That's being teed up." Indeed, it simply doesn't add up when you look at mortality rates.

"There's another agenda," Ayyadurai says. "That's what I see, because it doesn't make any rational sense [to crash the economy over COVID-19]. I think that's why a number of the videos, the tweets I've done have gone viral, because to everyday working people, it doesn't make sense either. They're trying to sort this out."

Interestingly, this epidemic is taking place just a few months after Google began censoring holistic health news. So, people searching for sound nutritional strategies can no longer find them. Instead, they're directed to Big Pharma-backed sites promoting conventional medicine. ...

"It has essentially moved to a model of a finite set of people serving the interests of another finite set of people," Ayyadurai says. "That's what's fundamentally going on. When we really look back at the history of 'infectious diseases,' what actually caused the real decline in infectious disease? ...

That came from sanitation, vitamin A, nutrition, elimination of child labor, refrigeration [and] infrastructure at the political level ... Well, how did we get that? This is one layer people need to understand from a human standpoint. It came about because in the late 1800s, there was a massive force of the American working class who were militant, and they fought for those rights.

People lived in squalor. No one cared for them. It was the uprising of those people and very, very powerful independently self-organizing systems, all over this country, that forced the elites to give them these basic infrastructures ...

So, what I see is the ability for people to organize and demand their rights and get them. That is what occurred in the late 1900s, and we got massive gains. Now look at infrastructure today. Dirty water, dirty air, dirty food ... and we look at them in synergy, how they affect our body. None of that's discussed, none of that. ...

And that's why when you look at this [COVID-19] phenomenon that's taking place, it's a penultimate of it ... You create massive amounts of fear so people will be willing — because they're under economic stress, under what they think is a health [threat] — to give up their rights.

And that's where I see this headed. So, this is an interesting convergence of ... economic attack, attack on people's health, [and attack on] people's autonomy and freedom. Truth, freedom and health are all under attack ...

They do not want any discussion about indigenous people's medicines that have worked for centuries. They don't want to talk about simple solutions ... so, they suppress discourse, suppress debate, suppress freedom, and move everything away from the scientific method — which is a process where you actually have to prove stuff, which is what they claim they want to do to scientific consensus.

Freedom gets suppressed and now you can move truth to scientific consensus. So, you go from suppression of freedom to fake science or outdated science at best. And then that is used to create a fake problem and a fake solution.

And then, if you go to the health part, what that means is you diminish people's health, you control people's health, and now you have a populace which is so controlled, they don't have the strength to fight for their freedom. So, you have the attack on freedom, the attack on truth, and the attack on health.

All of those are interconnected. They too are a system from a systems perspective. Without freedom, you can't have truth. Without truth, you can't have health. And without health we don't have the strength to fight for our freedom. And the way that truth actually is discovered should be through the scientific method. That's what's really been compromised, starting, I would say, in the late '50s." ...

14.4.20 - Passport to the Brave New World: the vaccine by Jon Rappaport:

<https://blog.nomorefakenews.com/2020/04/14/passport-to-the-brave-new-world-the-vaccine/>

If you don't know what freedom is, better figure it out now

I have already written about the currency reset and other features of a technocratic future waiting in the wings. —New levels of visible surveillance, social credit scores, universal guaranteed income, Internet of Things, energy-use quotas, smart cities.

—Events can move in several directions, going forward. In this article, I explore one of those directions.

The occasion is this fake pandemic; the big hammer is the vaccine against the phony COVID.

As Fauci mentioned a couple of months ago, it could be a DNA vaccine—new technology—which means it is really gene therapy. Synthesized genes are injected into the body. They purportedly set up immunity. Actually, they PERMANENTLY alter the genetic makeup of the recipient.

As you can imagine, this creates the opportunity to put many different genes into humans. To try to invent “new humans.”

The so-called immunity certificates Fauci is now talking about? They would be issued to people who test positive on the new antibody tests for COVID-19—which is an interesting turnaround, because, since 1984, positive tests results have generally been taken to mean “infected.” Why the shift?

Because there is a need for these immunity certificates—as an INTRO to condition the population to an IDEA.

If and when the COVID vaccine arrives, the certificates would be used to signify immunity for all those who take the shot.

It would function as a license. Your passport into the Brave New World. You're “immune,” so you're allowed to move out of fear mode. And circulate and travel and enter schools...

For DNA vaccines, the reference is the New York Times, 3/15/15, “Protection Without a Vaccine.”

It describes the frontier of research. Here are key quotes that illustrate the use of synthetic genes to “protect against disease,” while changing the genetic makeup of humans. This is not science fiction:

“By delivering synthetic genes into the muscles of the [experimental] monkeys, the scientists are essentially re-engineering the animals to resist disease.”

“The sky's the limit,” said Michael Farzan, an immunologist at Scripps and lead author of the new study.”

“The first human trial based on this strategy — called immunoprophylaxis by gene transfer, or I.G.T. — is underway, and several new ones are planned.” [That was five years ago.]

“I.G.T. is altogether different from traditional vaccination. It is instead a form of gene therapy. Scientists isolate the genes that produce powerful antibodies against certain diseases and then synthesize artificial versions. The genes are placed into viruses and injected into human tissue, usually muscle.”

Here is the punchline: “The viruses invade human cells with their DNA payloads, and the synthetic gene is incorporated into the recipient's own DNA. If all goes well, the new genes instruct the cells to begin manufacturing powerful antibodies.”

Read that again: “the synthetic gene is incorporated into the recipient's own DNA.”

Alteration of the human genetic makeup.

Not just a “visit.” Permanent residence.

The Times article taps Dr. David Baltimore for an opinion:

“Still, Dr. Baltimore says that he envisions that some people might be leery of a vaccination strategy that means altering their own DNA, even if it prevents a potentially fatal disease.”

Yes, some people might be leery. If they have two or three working brain cells.

This is genetic roulette with a loaded gun.

And the further implications are clear. Vaccines can be used as a cover for the injections of any and all genes, whose actual purpose is unannounced.

The vaccine masters have a problem. They know their genetic technology is far from perfect. Plans to re-engineer the human race are not a simple one two three.

For example, consider the latest and greatest genetic tool, called CRISPR.

Here is a backgrounder I wrote a year ago.

New CRISPR gene-editing: the extreme dangers

Technologynetworks.com (6/26/17): "CRISPR gene editing is taking biomedical research by storm. Providing the ultimate toolbox for genetic manipulation, many new applications for this technology are now being investigated and established. CRISPR systems are already delivering superior genetic models for fundamental disease research, drug screening and therapy development, rapid diagnostics, in vivo editing and correction of heritable conditions and now the first human CRISPR clinical trials."

All hail.

It's called CRISPR, a much faster, more precise, and cheaper technique for editing genes. Researchers are in love with it. You can find hundreds of articles and studies fawning over the innovation.

At phys.org, however, we have this, ahem, warning note (5/29/17): "...a new study published in Nature Methods has found that the gene-editing technology can introduce hundreds of unintended mutations into the genome."

Oops.

"In the new study, the researchers sequenced the entire genome of mice that had undergone CRISPR gene editing in the team's previous study and looked for all mutations, including those that only altered a single nucleotide."

"The researchers determined that CRISPR had successfully corrected a gene that causes blindness, but Kellie Schaefer, a PhD student in the lab of Vinit Mahajan, MD, PhD, associate professor of ophthalmology at Stanford University, and co-author of the study, found that the genomes of two independent gene therapy recipients [mice] HAD SUSTAINED MORE THAN 1500 SINGLE-NUCLEOTIDE MUTATIONS AND MORE THAN 100 LARGER [GENE] DELETIONS AND INSERTIONS. None of these DNA mutations were predicted by computer algorithms that are widely used by researchers to look for off-target effects." (Emphasis is mine.)

"Researchers who aren't using whole genome sequencing to find off-target effects may be missing potentially important mutations,' Dr. Tsang says. 'Even a single nucleotide change can have a huge impact'."

Genetic roulette is alive and well.

Spin the wheel, see what numbers come up. Good effects, bad effects, who knows? Step right up and take your chances.

Of course, researchers who admit these tremendous problems remain optimistic. They look forward to "refining the method." That's a cover for: "we really don't know what we're doing right now."

Unfortunately, much science operates in this fashion. Launch a new technology, and turn a blind eye to the consequences. For example, place mercury, a devastating neurotoxin, in vaccines. What harm could result—aside from the destruction of children's brains.

Here is more gushing PR, otherwise known as throwing stuff at the wall and seeing what sticks: "There are weekly press releases and updates on new advances [in CRISPR] and discoveries made possible with this technology; the first evidence is now emerging that CRISPR-Cas9 could provide cures for major diseases including cancers and devastating human viruses such as HIV-1." (technologynetworks.com)

And just in case you think only the most careful and competent leading lights of the genetic research community would be permitted to get within a mile of CRISPR, here is more from technologynetworks.com:

"CRISPR-Cas9 systems, tools and basic methodology are very accessible as ready to go toolkits that anyone with lab space and an idea can pick up and start working with...In response to a growing need, companies such as Desktop Genetics have developed open access software to accelerate CRISPR experimentation and analysis."

That's good to know. "Anyone with lab space and an idea" can jump on board and have at it.

Do your own cross breeding of the pregnant phrases, "What could possibly go wrong," and "Nothing to see here, move along," and you've summarized the situation.

"They say they cured my anemia, but now I turn green and purple and I keep falling down."

If all this isn't enough to make you see the dangers of CRISPR, consider this statement about engineering human immune cells (T-cells) in a "safer" way. From statnews.com (June 23, 2013):

"The experiment would alter the immune system's T cells only after they're removed from a patient. That gives scientists the chance to screen the CRISPR'd cells to make sure only the three intended genes, all involved in making T cells find and destroy tumor cells, are altered. But after those T cells are infused back into a patient to fight melanoma, sarcoma, or myeloma, the CRISPR system can keep editing DNA, and tracking such edits becomes like following a polar bear in a snowstorm."

Not very comforting. Once set in motion, even under the most protected and limited conditions, CRISPR can keep on working, scrambling genes in unknown ways.

So...when it comes to DNA vaccines, aka gene therapy, a plan to precisely re-engineer humans could quite easily descend into uncontrolled chaos.

And the controllers and elite funders of the vaccine know that.

What to do?

With the global population as their guinea pigs, perhaps they would start small. Introduce the slightest possible gene-alteration, stand back and see what happens. Try out a gene that would ordinarily—hopefully—achieve next to nothing. Try to measure the results.

Viewed from one angle, the whole fake epidemic is a set-up for the vaccine, and for mandatory vaccines.

I have written about the special exemption from liability recently issued by the US Dept. of Health and Human Services. Basically, anyone associated with pharmaceutical strategies undertaken "against the coronavirus" cannot be sued, regardless of "adverse effects" of medicines or vaccines. Taking a stand against mandatory vaccines—any and all vaccines—is more important than ever.

In this exclusive interview, Spiro is joined by David Icke. Spiro and David discuss the ongoing coronavirus crisis. David explains how the public is being manipulated by the system in perhaps the greatest psychological operation in history, as medical and government officials admit the numbers have been inflated.

The official projected coronavirus numbers disseminated by the establishment to the public, which were used to justify the lockdowns, were based on controversial and inaccurate computer models funded by Bill Gates.

In this must-see interview, David Icke and Spiro examine the events leading up to this current crisis, including the shutdown of the US military bioweapons program Fort Detrick, to the world military games in Wuhan China (the alleged ground zero of the outbreak) to Event 201 and much more.

In this report, David Icke lays out the entire scenario piecing together the puzzle, leading up to present day and projecting ahead while not only exposing the frontmen for this global operation, but exposing who is at the very top of the pyramid, and it is not Bill Gates...

18.4.20 - Daniel Estulin: 90% of businesses will fail. 90% of people won't have a job:

<https://forbiddenknowledge.net/what-happened-to-daniel-estulin-an-event-of-our-own/>

(video running time 23 mins)

Former Russian military intelligence officer, Daniel Estulin joins Daniel Brigman on The Power Hour podcast to talk about what's really going on with COVID-19 and the global clampdown. His version of events is very different from what you'll hear on CNN and it makes a whole lot more sense.

TRANSCRIPT (Lightly redacted)

DANIEL BRIGMAN: What is going on with Bill Gates in the WHO. What's the deal, there?

DANIEL ESTULIN: Well, I think the you know the bigger question, even than Bill Gates and the World Health Organization is the fact that Trump is finally cutting off funding to the World Health Organization, which is a Globalist organization created by the Rockefellers, way back when, over 70 years ago in 1948, I believe it was, and run today by the Deep State, whose front man is Bill Gates.

Now, if you look at all the stuff that's happening, you know exactly what is it that the World Health Organization does. Well, their main objective is the Rockefeller-Kissinger agenda; "Memorandum 200", to sterilize as many people women as they can and to kill as many people as they can using vaccines.

For example, Kenya's Catholic bishops, they're charging two United Nations organizations working with the World Health Organization with sterilizing millions of girls and women under the cover of an "anti tetanus" inoculation program.

So, again, the tetanus vaccination campaign, which is a well-coordinated, forceful, population control, mass-sterilization exercise; birth control vaccines promoted by this Task Force on Birth Control by the World Health Organization. A vaccine, whose purpose is to achieve non-pregnancy, where ordinarily it could occur.

So, there's a Task Force on Birth Control Vaccines at World Health Organization, Daniel and so, there are several papers from prestigious journals which focused on a hormone called Human Chorionic Gonadotropin (hCG)...

There's a heading in the Facet Paper, called "Ability of Antibodies to Neutralize the Biological Activities of hCG", and the authors are trying to discover whether a state of non-fertility can be achieved by blocking the normal activity of this hCG.

The Kissinger "Memorandum 200," which talked about sterilization, rather than food aid...the true concern was the maintenance of US access to Third World resources - that's what Kissinger and Rockefellers they were all concerned about - they worried that the political consequences of population growth in the Third World could produce internal instability.

So, with famine and food riots and the breakdown of social order in such countries the Kissinger memo warns that the smooth flow of needed materials will be jeopardized. In other words, too many people equals disruption for the transnational corporations who steal nations from the very people.

So, does this remind you of what is happening, for example, right now in the Western world; Europe, United States, Canada? Of course it does...This is the same thing in West Africa, with the Ebola crisis - or the alleged Ebola crisis.

Okay, now again if you kind of go back to some of the World Health Organization-sponsored programs, such as sterilization programs, there were unconfirmed reports, both from the Philippines and Mexico that in the 1990s...the tetanus vaccination programs, which were supposedly administered only to women of childbearing age involved multiple injections.

Now, the tetanus vaccine protocols indicate that one injection is good for ten years so, when you have these multiple injections, it would indicate another motive for the vaccination, such as the anti-fertility effect, for example...that gives you an idea that the World Health Organization is not about protecting human life on planet Earth. It has a different, very dark agenda and Trump cutting off funding is a first step in actually getting these people out of business.

DANIEL BRIGMAN: Let me ask a follow-up question: if Bill Gates and the WHO, is touting this potential new vaccine coming, [saying] the "new normal won't exist until we have a vaccine!" - listening to you, I should never take that vaccine that they're gonna push.

DANIEL ESTULIN: You should probably never take that vaccine, because it's again, one of the things about coronavirus is the forced vaccination programs. It's the Big Data, new electronic passports. In the future, Daniel you're not gonna have a passport, you gonna have this electronic passport that's gonna have your vaccination programs and to see if it's up-to-date.

You will need...to offer your...electronic passport for you to travel, for you to buy food, for you to get married, for you to die in peace, for you to be able to buy a home, to get a loan.

I mean, this is the same thing we talked about a year ago; about the new social rating that they have in China. Well, the same thing is being implemented right now in the United States and Canada, in Western Europe - and again, the whole point is that it's apparently being done for us but we understand how the elite work and the whole point of these programs is not about helping humanity but rather, controlling humanity.

And again, we have another proof of that: the Rockefeller Foundation, back in 2010...they wrote their own report on the possible epidemic scenarios from the year 2012 and one of these things actually foresaw for February 2012, a global pandemic, which will last three years, kill seven and a half million people and, needless to say, will need draconian measures for us, humanity.

In other words, to stop this this pandemic from spreading, with all the necessary precautions, such as vaccinations, microchipping of humanity, etc., etc.

For those people who still have the gall to say, "Daniel Estulin is a conspiracy theorist!" I want you to look to your left and to your right and realize that five and a half billion people and the planet Earth have been locked up in their homes. You have been locked up, something that we've been talking about since my first book on the Bilderbergers came out, back in the year 2005.

DANIEL BRIGMAN: You're kind of answering the question but let's go a little further: What is the end game of this? What is the not-so hidden agenda with this coronavirus? I mean, where is this -

DANIEL ESTULIN: Hmm - that's a good question - let me explain it to you. Let me tell you a little story. So, the point of what we're seeing today is we have a global economic collapse. It's a systemic collapse, meaning it's not a sector of the economy but the entire global, financial, political edifice is in a state of collapse.

The global debt - if you keep in mind everything that's old - is about $4 quadrillion. That's four and 15 zeros. So, the best way to write off that amount of money is what's called force majeure. So, you have some kind of a naturally-occurring event, being, I don't know, a meteorite hitting the planet Earth, you know, gigantic earthquake which wipes out half of humanity, thermonuclear war, Godzilla coming out at the bottom of the sea, you know making its presence felt - or some kind of a coronavirus.

So they tried thermonuclear war, because large wars - not some piddly little regional war in the Middle East - a global thermonuclear war would kill four or five billion people - which is fine, as far as the elite is concerned, okay and it allows you, gives you the excuse to write off four quadrillion dollars. You just write it off and nobody owes anybody anything...

They tried that. They killed Soleimani on the 3rd of January. Who is "they"? The Global Deep State. Doesn't matter the names - it's irrelevant. We're looking at things conceptually, right now.

But because we didn't have the thermonuclear war - why? Because nobody wanted to deal with the consequences. You have the Russians and the Americans, the Chinese, the Iranians, the Turks - everybody's there. But nobody wanted thermonuclear war, because they understood the consequences of that. It's a dirty war, which will have long-lasting effects on planet Earth for us and obviously, for them.

And so, they had this Plan B. And Plan B, again - Godzilla - they couldn't find him, okay? They sent him an email, he didn't reply. Meteorite, you know, just wasn't there. They couldn't count on it, either. So, then, there's this coronavirus thing.

Now, a little story, which I made up, 99% of it is true. You have a group of people, very powerful people. Doesn't matter what their names are - above government and presidents and prime minister-level. They understand that the global collapse is upon us. It's a systemic collapse of the entire system.

What we're seeing right now, we've only seen twice in the history of mankind, between the 4th and 6th centuries, when the old Roman order collapsed and feudalism came about and then in the 16th century, when feudalism died and capitalism came about - this is the end of a system.

So, they said, "If this goes through, humanity will blame us, because we're responsible. That's no good. So, they create this vaccine and they go to the General Director of the World Health Organization. It doesn't matter what his name is - it could be this guy, could be any guy - and they explain to him the financial situation and they say, "Look, we need to have a force majeure to write off this $4 quadrillion debt and now the global governments - America, Canada, Europe, etc., etc. etc. need to save us from what we've done.

"So, what we need to do, we have this virus and we're gonna launch this, we're gonna call it a 'pandemic' but we have the antidote already. Bill Gates already made it and don't worry, everything is fine, nobody's gonna really die. All we need to do is for you, the World Health Organization, as the world health authority - because, people are dumb and they'll believe anything you say - to call this a pandemic."

So, the guy says, "You guys are insane. Do you understand what you're saying?" So they sweeten the pot. They say, "Look, we're gonna give your World Health Organization $300 billion." It doesn't matter. It could be five, it could be a trillion. There's a piece of colored paper you print. It's irrelevant.

If he says yes, great. If he says no, then they go to the next step. And the next step is they say, "Look, okay, we're gonna give $300 billion to the World Health Organization and we're gonna give you, personally $100 million dollars, which we'll deposit in any bank account you want."

If he says, "OK, let's do it. We'll call it a pandemic." Wonderful. If he says no, then they sweeten the pot further. They say, "Look, we're gonna give you a Nobel Peace Prize. We gave it to Obama, we can give it to you, it doesn't really matter." If he says yes, great. If he says no, then they put real pressure. "Look, we're gonna kill you, as we have killed so many other Presidents of the United States and other countries."

"I mean, we were behind 9/11. The stupid Americans believed it, because some media put it on the cover that it was bin Laden in his cave in Afghanistan. So we can do that and we'll put somebody else in your place, who will do exactly what we tell them."

And so, the man or the woman - whoever is in charge - realizes that he is really between a rock and a hard place. I mean, he could die and not get anything out of it - or he could go along, get his Nobel Peace Prize, $100 million dollars, live as a good Samaritan for the rest of his life and be considered the savior of humanity. So, he goes along.

So, now we have the World Health Organization in the bag, officially willing to call this a pandemic. But now, you need the presence of countries to come along. How do you do that? Because, again, this isn't a little conspiracy of four old geezers sitting in a dark room holding hands, staring at a crystal ball, pressing some buttons, calling for world domination. It's a much easier process, because the entire edifice of world media corporations and mainstream media is controlled and owned by the military-industrial complex, meaning billionaires and trillionaires who control the world from behind the scenes.

Through media, you can put in some amount of pressure on all the presidents and governments and countries. You can make presidents fall and replace them with someone else. You don't really need to kill them, you just tell the country, this man is a menace to their country. As a result of his neglect, so many hundreds of thousands people will die; as a result of this false pandemic, so most presidents go along.

Those who don't, I promise that they will not win the following election so those who do, and pronounce the magic word, "pandemic", they'll be given incredible amounts of money by the United Nations by the Rockefeller Foundation, by the Hudson Institute, by the Bilderbergers, by - just name any one of these global organizations, liberal banking financier groups, it doesn't matter and this how this pandemic works. It's very, very easy.

So again, the point is you have a global systemic collapse. You need somehow, to find a way out of this. They tried nuclear war, that didn't work. They still had this $4 quadrillion debt hanging over them. What do they do? Godzilla didn't come, so they've gone for the next best thing, they go for coronavirus.

DANIEL BRIGMAN: Let me interject. I didn't come up with this idea but we've got some emails and what-have-you and the thought came to me, I want to run it by you. Just listening to you, I'm really stunned - I hate they even interrupt you, there - but we just should do something like there's a webinar...multi-hour webinar, where people all over the world can come see you on video and you answer questions.

Your perspective on this is so different than the corporate media and it's so needed right now. You are telling that an accurate depiction and what everything else we're seeing is a lie; what this is, what we can do with the future. Would you do a webinar or something like that? Would you be interested in something?

DANIEL ESTULIN: Absolutely. I mean, I get all literally hundreds of emails every day, most of them from America, people saying, "What do we do now? How do I protect my family? How will we get our food? Do I go a live abroad? How do I get a second passport? Do I keep my money in the bank? Do I exchange my dollars to physical gold and silver? How do I hide it somewhere? These are the kinds of things people want to know.

But I can tell you something else, Daniel. Right now, it's really, really important for people to understand, is the family unity is the most important thing you can do, as a point of departure. I saw a statistic yesterday, which really unnerved me. It said there's an increase of 47% in the divorce rates in America over the past month.

In other words, these old rivalries are coming to the fore, with a lot of finger-pointing, "You said that he said that she said that you cheated on me, mother-in-law, your father-in-law..." So, all this kind of stuff is coming out and people are splitting up. If you want to survive today in what's coming down right now, because it hasn't even started - it hasn't started - what people are seeing like, for example my family, my parents, who are now old, they're in their eighties and they live in Toronto, Canada and their friends, who for years, they've been laughing at all the stuff I've been talking about - and again, I'm not a conspiracy theorist, I'm a Doctor of Conceptual Intelligence - they're calling my parents and saying, "Ask your son when this thing is going to go away," as if I had a magic wand can make this coronavirus thing go away.

They don't understand that it hasn't started. It's a prelude to the First Act. It's an [apéritif] you're given when you come to someone's party. Then you're gonna sit down, there's gonna be the first course, second, third, fourth, fifth, etc. This thing really is going to start in September.

So, we have literally was what's left of April, May, June, July and a bit of of August. We have about three and a half months, okay to get our stuff together, understand what's coming down, okay get ready, because in September, we're gonna have the first serious wave of collapse.

And what's coming is gonna be twice as bad as the Great Depression. We have never seen, there's no person alive on planet Earth today who's come in contact with anything remotely similar to this - and I'm not talking about the Great Depression, because this is going to be greater, much greater than the Great Depression.

90% of businesses will fail. 90% of people won't have a job and that's one of the reasons why the global elite wanted a thermonuclear war...what you're seeing right now is a change. Yes, a very violent change from one technological paradigm to another.

We went from the fourth techno paradigm - meaning, industrial economy - okay, to post-industrial where, suddenly the industrial engineers; they were no longer interesting. They were looked at as losers and suddenly, the bank managers, the managers, you know the insurance, the brokers, the lawyers - suddenly, these were the White Collar, these were the "in-people"; they were driving the fancy cars, they were having the fancy jobs, they were having the best-looking women - quote, unquote - I know, because looks have nothing to do with the "best woman", especially in the crisis, which it is right now.

And now, we're seeing that these people are gonna be taken out of the equation, because we're going to the sixth techno paradigm. What is the sixth technical paradigm? Its robotics, it's Artificial Intelligence, it's a virtual [reality], it's 3D printing, etc., etc.

So, in this world, which is Trans-Industrial, you're not gonna need these people anymore. And suddenly, you find yourself, that industrialists were replaced by lawyers, managers, bankers, financiers, with luxury items, services, that fancy cell phones, entire industries built for the Chinese millionaires to come in and swap anything they can for doesn't-matter-how-much-money, these people are gone.

So, 90% of people won't have anything to do and so, by trying to kill five, six billion people, it solves one of the key problems for the global elite. It also solves another key problem you can write off the responsibility and say, "It's not us. It's a global thermonuclear war," because everything else was fine.

But because they couldn't get that going and you still have the problem of eight billion people and you still have the problem of a new techno paradigm coming at us - these are the kinds of things we can discuss in a webinar - and most importantly, we will give people the roadmap, because they need a map to try to navigate this, because none of us have ever seen anything like it and the Mainstream Media, because they're part of the Liberal banking financier order, only have one vision - of the people who today are on their deathbed.

DANIEL BRIGMAN: Do you know, this is very, maybe stark reality that you're presenting the people...I see that this is an opportunity...all these lawyers and all this post-industrial economy and all these managers and all these people who produce nothing, who do nothing but just feed off - they're like parasites - we have a chance, here to make them all go away and to go back into or go towards something else, and ascend toward something else.

DANIEL ESTULIN: ...Historically, no change from one level of technology to another has ever happened without some kind of very violent war or conflict. So, this is gonna be no different. Doesn't have to be a thermonuclear war or World War II-like conflict.

Because, what you see with coronavirus - call it Hybrid Warfare 6.0. It's bacteriological war and what you're seeing is, again they can kill people with pinpoint accuracy. Be it by their DNA, by the age group, by their race, by their creed, by their haplogroups - every other population of planet Earth, they can do that right now and it's much easier to do that, and this is the kind of stuff we're gonna be seeing more and more in the future...

The future wars - and the elite finally realized that they don't need to kill soldiers, okay. They can, with pinpoint accuracy and bacteriological wars, kill as many people as they want from a hundred thousand miles away and not suffer any consequences. This is what we're seeing now.

It doesn't matter who's behind coronavirus. The Americans, the British, the Chinese - it doesn't matter - all of them are getting something out of this - but most importantly, Daniel, what we're seeing globally, is that the elite who understand that the collapse is coming - and in the United States, you've never seen anything like this - but in the Soviet Union, we saw this in 1991.

So what you're seeing right now in America we lived through in Russia in 1991, meaning we went to sleep in one country, we woke up in another - Russia. Meaning, that the day we woke up in another country, we lost all our savings that we've ever had. 40% of the population went from having something to having zero - and as a result, 25 million people killed themselves; dragged themselves to death, you know, jumped off buildings. This is coming to America and you have to prepare for it.

And if we do this webinar, we're gonna give people the ways out of this, so that they and their families and their loved ones can survive and navigate. We can't do this individually, we have to work this as a community, this is very important.

Let's do it. We'll put it together, have some kind of nominal fee for it; we'll make it pretty extensive and people can ask questions. Let's do it. This is so important right now

DANIEL ESTULIN: Exactly.

DANIEL BRIGMAN: Alright, we've got about 20 seconds. A ray of hope. Just give us a little spark of hope of something. We need that.

DANIEL ESTULIN: No matter how hard they try, the world is not going to die. It's just the old parasitical order is dying. What they want to do, they want to take all of us to Hell with them. We won't let them do that, okay? Knowledge is power and we will survive!

Donald%20Trump%20funding%20cuts%20to%20WHO%20mean%20for%20the%20world

[Ed. Who provides the funding for this free online publication called The Conversation? Sure looks like it's another mouthpiece for the usual suspects!]

US President Donald Trump has announced the US is cutting its funding to the World Health Organisation (WHO) – a decision that will have major implications for the global health response to the coronavirus pandemic.

The US contributes more than US$400 million to the WHO per year, though it is already US$200 million in arrears. It is the organisation's largest donor and gives about 10 times what China does per year.

Trump has accused the organisation of mishandling and covering up the initial spread of COVID-19 in China, and of generally failing to take a harsher stance toward China.

What will Trump's decision to cut funding mean for the organisation?

Who are members of the WHO?

The WHO was established in 1948 to serve as the directing and coordinating authority in international health. It was created with a mandate to improve the health of the world's population, and defined health as a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being, and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity.

While various civil society, industry and faith-based organisations can observe WHO meetings, only countries are allowed to become members. Every May, member states attend the World Health Assembly in Geneva to set the WHO's policy direction, approve the budget and review the organisation's work.

Currently, there are 194 WHO member states, which means the organisation has one more member state than the United Nations.

How is the WHO funded?

The WHO receives the majority of its funding from two primary sources. The first is membership dues from countries, which are described as "assessed contributions".

Assessed contributions are calculated based on the gross domestic product and size of population, but they have not increased in real terms since the level of payments was frozen in the 1980s.

The second source of funding is voluntary contributions. These contributions, provided by governments, philanthropic organisations [Ed. That's Bill Gates, who provides 85% of WHO funding and practically owns the organisation. Philanthropic? BG is more misanthropic!] and private donations, are usually earmarked for specific projects or initiatives, meaning the WHO has less ability to reallocate them in the event of an emergency such as the COVID-19 pandemic.

Have countries pulled funding before?

Over more than 70 years of operations, a number of countries have failed to pay their membership dues on time.

At one point the former Soviet Union announced it was withdrawing from the WHO and refused to pay its membership fees for several years. When it then rejoined in 1955, it argued for a reduction in its back dues, which was approved.

As a result of nonpayment of assessed contributions, we have seen several instances where the WHO has been on the verge of bankruptcy. Fortunately, governments have usually acted responsibly and eventually paid back their fees.

Has there been political criticism of the WHO before?

Yes. In 2009, the WHO was accused of acting too early in declaring swine flu a pandemic, in part over concerns it had been pressured by pharmaceutical companies.

Five years later, the organisation was accused of acting too late in declaring the West African Ebola outbreak a public health emergency.

Trump has criticised the WHO for not acting quickly enough in sending its experts to assess China's efforts to contain COVID-19 and call out China's lack of transparency over its handling of the initial stage of the crisis.

But these criticisms ignore China's sovereignty. The WHO does not have the power to force member states to accept a team of WHO experts to conduct an assessment. [Ed. Thank God for that!] The country must request WHO assistance.

Nor does the organisation have the power to force a country to share any information. It can only request.

Of course, Trump's comments also ignore the fact the WHO did eventually send a team of experts to conduct an assessment in mid-February after finally obtaining Chinese approval. The results from this investigation provided important information about the virus and China's efforts to halt its spread.

Does China have increasing influence over the WHO?

Understandably China has grown in power and economic influence since 2003, when then-Director General Gro Harlem Brundtland publicly criticised it for trying to hide the spread of the SARS virus. China has also been criticised for blocking Taiwan's bid to join the organisation. Taiwan has had one of the most robust responses to the COVID-19 crisis.

But China is ultimately just one of the WHO's 194 member states. And one of the great ironies of Trump's criticism is that the organisation has been criticised by other member states for decades for being influenced too heavily by the United States.

What happens if the US cuts funding?

If enacted, these funding cuts may cause the WHO to go bankrupt in the middle of a pandemic. That might mean the WHO has to fire staff, even as they are trying to help low- and middle-income countries save lives. [Ed. Hooray! Maybe they will stop sterilising millions of women!]

It will also mean the WHO is less able to coordinate international efforts around issues like vaccine research, procurement of personal protective equipment for health workers and providing technical assistance and experts to help countries fight the pandemic. [Ed. Hooray!]

More broadly, if the US extends these cuts for other global health initiatives coordinated by the WHO, it will likely cause people in low income countries to lose access to vital medicines and health services. Lives will be lost. [Ed. And many more will be gained by stopping WHO/Gates sterilisations!]

There will also be a cost to the United States' long-term strategic interests.

For decades, the world has looked to the US to provide leadership on global health issues. Due to Trump's attempt to shift blame from his administration's failures to prepare the US for the arrival of COVID-19, he has now signalled the US is no longer prepared to provide that leadership role.

And one thing we do know is that if nature abhors a vacuum, politics abhors it even more.

FROM A CORRESPONDENT

Viruses are electroparasites. It is in German: Elektroparasiten - Strahlung wie 5G beeinflusst Viren (radiation like 5G influences viruses). But that is why electrohypersensitive people have these feelings. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1r\_yTxsEhIY&feature=em-uploademail
 But this is one more proof, that 5G is involved or all the artificial radiation around as in the activation of viruses. They react to electron charge, they feed off electricity, energy is their food! I found even a study that we can make electricity from viruses. Viruses are electro-sensitive, like me! That is also why we have herpes on nerve ends where there is energy. And when someone with psoriasis gets stressed, the voltage changes and the psoriasis get worse.

COMMENT*18.4.20 – FROM A CORRESPONDENT (on Spain and New Zealand)

Two countries that have supported the globalist lockdown agenda to the hilt with draconian rules and jackboots are Spain and New Zealand. Here's a 7 min. discussion with the prime ministers of those countries...with Bill and Melinda Gates--on September 25, 2019, three weeks before Gates' Event 201! Sleazy bastards... <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Y5eo5-cJt0U>

18.4.20 – FROM A CORRESPONDENT – a bit of history on electromagnetic radiation

Here is my take on COVID 19 and it's relation to 5G. 1918 was the first time humans were exposed en masse to constant radio frequencies. Spark Gap Wireless Telegraph was replaced by Frequency Modulation and Amplitude Modulation. This was able to transmit voice communication. The transmitters stay on constantly exposing everyone to RF Radiation. Your cells are affected by these fields and your immune system reacts. Because initial immune response does not stop the perceived invader, your immune system goes into high gear, producing huge amounts of cytokines that cause massive inflammation that eventually can kill you by pneumonia. Spanish flu did not originate in Spain. WWI caused many nations involved in the war to confiscate all radio transmitter stations for military use. Spain was neutral and did not confiscate transmitters and allowed news communications to continue. Reports of the epidemic were broadcast there and so it got the name. Powerful transmitters were placed in port cities for navy communications and mobile transmitters on mules for infantry communications by the nations who were at war. Most of the victims of "Spanish Flu" were in port cities and military bases. Most of the victims were healthy men in their 20's and 30's. They were the ones with the strongest immune systems and THAT IS WHAT KILLED THEM. Their own immune systems trying to kill an untouchable invader. Telecom giants are about to flood the planet with 60 GHZ and above RF TOXICITY from 5G transmission towers. They KNOW it will be harming and killing people, but have so much invested in it they do not care. COVID 19 is a HOAX being perpetrated to cover their asses for MASS WILLFUL NEGLIGENCE that may result in much Injury and death. WHO and CDC are instructing doctors and coroners to FALSIFY DEATH CERTIFICATES with COVID 19 diagnosis and cause of death. When people begin getting sick and dying from 5G tower RF radiation, they will be falsifying those diagnoses and death certificates allowing the 5G rollout to continue unabated.

[Ed. Fake politician says: "Even in normal times, sadly, about 10,000 people die in care homes ..." Would you credit it? Really? People all over are actually dying in old people's homes? In large numbers? Gosh, we need to prevent this. Let's destroy the economy and imprison everyone in their homes! Let's make war on this death phenomenon! Let's not go near these old people in case we catch this death thing from them! I wonder if pre-emptive euthanasia by withdrawing health care or administering excess doses of morphine would prevent us catching it ...

Oh, sorry – we're already doing all this, aren't we? Silly me! I thought I was being innovative there for a moment. ...]

[Ed. Read the comments – they are hilarious: “

18.4.20 - Killing ourselves to flatten the curve — Part 1 - Brendan D. Murphy: https://www.wakingtimes.com/2020/04/18/killing-ourselves-to-flatten-the-curve-part-1/?utm\_source=Waking+Times+Newsletter&utm\_medium=email&utm\_campaign=16aa00c384-RSS\_EMAIL\_CAMPAIGN&utm\_term=0\_25f1e048c1-16aa00c384-54797653

... The question is this:

By trying to “flatten the curve” using current methods are we actually going to ruin lives and kill people at a higher rate than this apparent flu-like condition — that appears less and less threatening by the day — ever could?

Consider “social distancing” and self-quarantine, a couple of supremely Orwellian terms. We are told this is to “flatten the curve” and prevent the spread of the dread disease (an idea which increasing numbers of medical professionals and scientists are challenging).

We are, paradoxically, “united” in our isolation.

What are the impacts of this isolation? Might there be unintended consequences for mass enforcement of these measures? Let's take a look.

Self-Quarantine, Loneliness, and Impacts on Immunity

Everyone knows the elderly represent a more susceptible demographic. Government rhetoric tells us that the radical social measures will “protect the vulnerable” such as the elderly — but how true is this?

In a study by Krumholtz on elderly people who were hospitalised for congestive heart failure, it was found that those who had no one to rely on for emotional support were three times more likely to have another episode requiring a return to hospital than the patients who had warm relationships.<sup>[i]</sup>

This speaks to the powerful psychosomatic component of health — part of the puzzle conspicuously absent from mainstream discourse, which — you may have noticed — focuses the covid-19 narrative entirely on the idea of vengeful microbes floating around waiting for an unsuspecting human host. ...

There's more.

In 2003, Dr Sheldon Cohen, a psychologist at Carnegie Mellon published the results of his intentional attempts at trying to give common colds to people, in a study featuring over 300 volunteers.<sup>[ii]</sup>

He wanted to test whether sociability predicted resistance to infectious conditions.

Under tightly controlled conditions he systematically exposed volunteers to a rhinovirus believed to cause the common cold. Despite his best efforts, fully two thirds of the exposed volunteers were utterly unaffected.

What Cohen and his colleagues found was that “sociability was associated with greater resistance to developing colds.”

All things being equal, simple exposure was clearly not the be all and end all. Cohen et al. also had something to say about cortisol: “Sociability was associated with lower concentrations of...cortisol and the SNS hormone epinephrine.”

It is generally recognised nowadays that chronically elevated levels of cortisol have an immune-damping effect.

Consider the impact, then, of the systematic shutdown of virtually the entire global economy and resulting plague of joblessness, poverty, and pressure to provide for family and dependents — a sure fire recipe for chronically elevated cortisol levels from these raw survival anxieties.

And then add on top of that the bonus of social deprivation (let's call it what it is) — which ALSO has an immune-damping effect.

So, on the one hand, our loving governments have unleashed a pandemic of stress and anguish due to the wholesale destruction of the global economy and resulting Depression (yes, it's well under way) — and on the other hand we have the Orwellian ban on free socialisation, depriving countless people of the most valuable thing in a time of crisis: an empathetic human touch.

We are not robots.

Studies done on babies have shown that those reared without physical contact suffer in a multitude of ways, including the stunting of natural physical growth.

Monetary tensions in a household are part of the texture of urban life and the stuff of legend. It's axiomatic that finances are a common source of conflict in the home. Consider the amplification of general household stress a Depression-level event like this global shutdown brings.

Like a lottery win — or a PCR test — the coronavirus lockdown situation is an amplifier of what is already present.

How does this bode for the health and immunity of people in tough — or even abusive — relationships?

What Cohen found in his work was that participants who had an ongoing personal conflict were 2.5 times as likely as the other volunteers to develop a cold, which put rough relationships in the same causal category as vitamin C deficiency and sleep deprivation! [iii]

But the hits keep coming.

In earlier phases of these studies, Cohen found that, of 276 volunteers exposed to rhinovirus:

The people with the weakest social support levels were 4.2 times more susceptible than those with robust sociability. Although smoking, poor sleep quality, low vitamin C, elevated catecholamine levels, and even introversion were all associated with greater susceptibility to colds, they were not as important as the social support and connection felt by participants. [iv]

This means loneliness was even riskier than smoking in terms of developing a cold/upper respiratory illness.

Cohen and his team concluded, "More diverse social networks were associated with greater resistance to upper respiratory illness."

Consider this information in light of the "COVID situation" where we are being trained to view each other with fear and suspicion — and "self-quarantine" at home. What effect does that have on people living alone? Or a single parent with an energetic child? An elderly widow/er? ...

FROM A CORRESPONDENT

Domestic violence in Italy, Albania and Germany

it shows that the Problem exists in many countries of Europe, instead of solving it we get screwed over the language by genders

In Germany, by the way, new women's houses have been set up,

Before the Lockdown, because this problem is just everywhere and it will be bad these days.

Why do women not work together internationally ? "Feminism" was just a lie. Women are biologically not men. as the Greens claim. They are people with women's typical rights. Why is giving birth and raising children a private pleasure? This is a pasha's view of the Problem and totally inappropriate.

Here in Italy no arrangements. The police in Liguria have the insolence to ignore the Istanbul Convention. And the public prosecutor's office in Essen in Germany as well. By the way only Italy and by the way only police !!!!

Mrs. Merkel is not a woman, but a monster.

What I would find better than women's shelters are free self-defence courses for women and the education of students in school to respect and respect for students and teachers.

Excerpt:

... And I would say that especially in this particular instance in time, we humans cannot afford to compromise the quality of our search for the truth. In particular, given the open flood-gates of information and vested interests of those determining the flow and nature of that information, we must all expect that the panorama of this information will shift and change, until its final form is so solid as to deny any efforts to obfuscate or deny it. We must all remember, as my dear grandmother used to say, that the lie remains, only until the truth arrives. And it has never been more important, for the survival and health of Humanity, to find that truth, now. We must use our intuitive gifts and critical judgment to carefully but assiduously dust off and blow away the accumulation of false or misleading information that has settled over the underlying truth, and let it shine forth, once again, to guide us. ...

Let us take our courage and our love in both hands, and bring them together to resolve the daunting challenges that this Covid-wrought situation has brought to our reality.

I have always acknowledged that each of the many spiritual traditions of this world has wisdom to guide us all, and so I will share here one such example: a prayer, that I feel will resonate with us all, and help show us the way, again.

St. Francis of Assisi's Prayer for Peace

Lord, make me an instrument of your peace:

where there is hatred, let me sow love;

where there is injury, pardon;

where there is doubt, faith;

where there is despair, hope;

where there is darkness, light;

where there is sadness, joy.

O divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console,

to be understood as to understand,

to be loved as to love.

For it is in giving that we receive,

it is in pardoning that we are pardoned, and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.

Amen.

So be it.

I don't think anything else needs to be said. Do your own research and draw your own conclusions. What are the chances a device on the body that is used for digital translations would have a patent number 060606?

Also, Microsoft patented this on March 26th of this year.

The full patent id is WO/2020/060606.

From the Patent:

"Human body activity associated with a task provided to a user may be used in a mining process of a cryptocurrency system. A server may provide a task to a device of a user which is communicatively coupled to the server. A sensor communicatively coupled to or comprised in the device of the user may sense body activity of the user. Body activity data may be generated based on the sensed body activity of the user. The cryptocurrency system communicatively coupled to the device of the user may verify if the body activity data satisfies one or more conditions set by the cryptocurrency system, and award cryptocurrency to the user whose body activity data is verified."

- Indian doctors blame Gates for a devastating vaccine-strain polio epidemic that paralyzed 496,000 children between 2000 and 2017. In 2017, the Indian Government dialled back Gates' vaccine regimen and evicted Gates. Polio paralysis rates dropped precipitously.
- In 2014, Kenya's Catholic Doctors Association accused the WHO of chemically sterilizing millions of unwilling Kenyan women with a phoney "tetanus" vaccine campaign. Independent labs found the sterility formula in every vaccine tested. After denying the charges, WHO finally admitted it had been developing the sterility vaccines for over a decade. Similar accusations came from Tanzania, Nicaragua, Mexico and the Philippines.

IMPORTANT - Harry Vox's videos will no longer be on this channel going forward - please go to <http://www.voxnews.com/> (no affiliation with vox.com) the US military-industrial police state has never hesitated to sacrifice the lives of Americans in order to achieve its goal of locking down control of all movement - not just in & out of the country but within the country. Bioweapons, as the Rockefeller Foundation gleefully pointed out way back in 2010, are a fantastic way to convince an already-mentally-supine population to yield control of their physical forms to the state's machinations as well. while the interview in this video was recorded in 2014 as an Ebola outbreak ravaged west Africa, Vox's observations are if anything even more applicable to 2020's coronavirus outbreak, which has set western powers salivating as China sets into motion its enviable (if you're a power-mad sociopath) state control machinery to quarantine some 50 million people behind a 'cordon sanitaire' that authorities admit has already allowed carriers of the virus to slip out ahead of its imposition - meaning this massive crackdown on free movement serves no purpose other than as a giant human experiment in what liberties a population will thoroughly trash for the fleeting illusion of security. spoiler alert: too many.

Thousands of Americans answer Trump's call to 'liberate' states from governors' stringent coronavirus lockdowns with mass protests - as Floridians flood beaches the minute they are partially reopened

- Around 100 demonstrators gathered in Huntington Beach, California, demanding an end to the lockdown
- In Orlando, Florida, several dozen protesters held Trump banners and urged governor to 'reopen Florida'
- In Frankfort, Kentucky, a caravan-style protest was held as motorists drove around the state capitol
- Several hundred protesters gathered outside Minnesota governor's residence in St. Paul on Friday
- Washington Governor Jay Inslee slammed Trump's calls to 'liberate' states as 'unhinged rantings'

Some hospitals in Oregon have seen revenue decline as much as 60 per cent in a month, Becky Hultberg, CEO of the Oregon Association of Hospitals and Health Systems, said recently.

... The shutdowns have inflicted heavy damage on economies around the world. In the US, the crisis has cost at least 22 millions Americans their jobs, pushing the unemployment rate toward levels not seen since the Great Depression.

... In Italy, for example, where the official toll has climbed past 22,000, a government survey released Friday of about one-third of the country's nursing homes found more than 6,000 residents have died since February 1.

It was unclear how many were a result of COVID-19. In Britain, with an official count of about 14,600 dead, the country's statistics agency said the actual number could be around 15 per cent higher.

<https://stillnessinthestorm.com/2020/04/tennis-legend-marat-safin-theyre-preparing-people-for-microchip-implants/>

(RT News) Russian tennis legend Marat Safin has suggested the coronavirus pandemic could be a pretext for the mass implanting of microchips into humans, as the former world number one gave an unexpected take on the crisis.

"I think they are preparing people for 'chipization' [chip implants]," Safin, 40, said in an Instagram chat with Russian outlet Sports.ru.

"Back in 2015, Bill Gates said we'll have a pandemic, that the next enemy is a virus, not a nuclear war.

"They did a simulation at the Davos [economic] forum of what it would be like. I don't think Bill Gates is a predictor, he just knew.

"I think with this virus the situation isn't like what we're being told, but people believe it all, the horror stories on TV.

"Some people believe civilization will end, I don't believe that. We'll just be going around with chips soon," Safin added, continuing his unorthodox take on the current crisis. In a further twist, the two-time Grand Slam winner even suggested there were shady forces at work that may be behind recent events.

"They've put the whole world [in lockdown] at home, so everything works," said Safin.

"I think there are guys even bigger than world leaders who are the real masters of money, the masters of the world, they can turn things around easily.

"Call it a shadow government, call it whatever you like. I think we don't even know they exist.

"The Rothschilds and the Rockefellers are well-known names, but someone else is behind them."

Notes compiled in 2019 on the biological effects of wireless technology

Rome Laboratory, Air Force Materiel Command, Griffiss Air Force Base, New York

<https://emfrefugee.blogspot.com/2014/09/radiofrequencymicrowave-radiation.html>

Conclusion: Exposure to RF/MW radiation is known to have a biological effect on living organisms. ... Adherence to the ANSI Standard [9] should provide protection against harmful thermal effects and help to minimize the interaction of EM fields with the biological processes of the human body [9].

Excerpts

- Absorption: It is known that RF/MW radiated energy will be absorbed by the tissue of the human body. The depth of energy penetration into the tissue depends primarily on the wavelength of the incident radiation and the water content of the tissue [3], [6].
- Auditory effects: Individuals exposed to pulsed RF/MW radiation have reported hearing a chirping, clicking or buzzing sound emanating from inside or behind the head.
- Biological effects:
  - Adverse biological effects can occur when the body is subjected to high doses of RF/MW radiation [161].
  - Exposure of living organisms to RF/MW radiation can have a potentially dangerous biological effect. ... Union. East Block countries have set more stringent standards than nations in the West [3], [8], [11], [22].
  - Exposure to higher levels of radiation can cause serious biological effects.
  - Investigators in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe have placed a great emphasis on the nonthermal effects of biological exposure to RF/MW radiation. They contend that electromagnetic interactions with the bioelectrical and biochemical functions of the body constitute a more serious health risk than effects from thermal heating. Nonthermal disruptions have been observed to occur at power density levels that are much lower than are necessary to induce thermal effects.
- Blood:
  - Blood circulation can be altered in the affected area and other biological functions could be indirectly affected [12].
  - There is evidence that RF/MW radiation can effect the blood and blood forming systems of animals and humans.
- Body:
  - Depth of energy penetration: Biological materials such as skin are dielectrics that consist mostly of water. Hence, these dielectrics are rich in molecular dipoles and are able to quickly absorb millimeter-wave radiation.
  - Body geometry: The orientation of the human body with respect to the incident EM field will determine the amount of RF/MW energy that is absorbed by the tissue.

- RF/MW radiated energy is nonuniformly deposited over the whole-body surface.
- Burns:
  - Burns can cause increased vascular permeability. This can lead to significant losses of body fluids and electrolytes.
  - Serious burns can suffer fluid losses for a few days.
- Cancer:
  - In 1962, S. Prausnitz and C. Susskind reported experimental results that showed an increase in cancer among test animals exposed to RF/MW radiation.
  - In 1976, A. A. Kapustin, M. I. Rudnev, G. I. Leonskaia, and G.I. Knobecva (reference found in [17]) reported alterations in the chromosomes of bone marrow cells in laboratory animals that were exposed to RW/MW radiation.
  - Nonthermal effects may provide important clues to the understanding of carcinogenic reactions in the human body [8],[32].
  - Pulsed and CW radiation ranging in frequency from 15 to 2950 MHz and power densities from 7 to 200 mW/cm<sup>2</sup> have caused abnormalities to occur in chromosomes. ... They concluded that irradiation of tissue by pulsed RF/MW sources causes cell membranes to become more permeable to destructive chemical mutagens [8].
- Cardiovascular effects:
  - Researchers examined 100 patients suffering from radiation sickness. It was found that 71 of the patients had some type of cardiovascular problem.
  - Soviet investigators claim that exposure to low levels of RF/MW radiation that are not sufficient to induce hyperthermia can cause aberrations in the cardiovascular system of the body [7].
  - The WHO investigation found evidence linking exposure of RF/MW radiation to cardiovascular disease and cancer.
- Clothing effects: Figure 6 shows the relationship between clothing thickness and coupling efficiency as a function of frequency. The authors note that wet or damp clothing may actually reduce the amount of energy absorbed by the body because of the Debye relaxation of the water molecules [6].
- Congenital abnormalities: They found gross congenital abnormalities in rodent fetuses that were irradiated by a 2450 MHz RF/MW source at an incident power intensity of 107.4 mW/g [8].
- Eyes:
  - However, minimum exposure levels sufficient to cause ocular damage are not certain [301].
  - In 1970, Zaret, Kaplan and Kay (reference found in [30]) reported a large number of cataracts induced in humans as result of occupational exposure.
  - The researchers concluded that exposure to RF/MW radiation had caused the lens of the eye to age faster than normal [30].
- Heating: wavelengths the perception of warmth may occur at a power density level of about 8.7 mW/cm<sup>2</sup>.
- Neurological effects: It was observed that rabbits exposed to the 5 and 10 uW/cm<sup>2</sup> power density levels suffered alterations in the electrical activity of the cerebral cortex and disturbances to the conditioned reflex response.
- Neurological effects: observations of laboratory animals subjected to low power EM fields showed alterations in the electrical activity of the cerebral cortex and disruptions in the activity of neurons [17].
- Resonance frequency: The ANSI Standard [9] reports that the human body will absorb 7 times more energy from radiation emitted at the resonance frequency than at a frequency of 2450 MHz [9]. ... The free space whole-body resonance frequency is reported to be between 61.8-77 MHz for a Standard Model of Man [91, [22], (25)]. ... When the human body is in contact with the electrical ground, the whole-body resonance frequency is reduced to about 47 MHz [22]. Figure 3 shows the SAR versus the incident EM field frequency for conditions of free space and grounding [22].
- Skin: IR [Ionizing] radiation will not penetrate the outer body surface as deeply as RF/MW radiation emitted at a frequency of 2.45 GHz.

- Symptoms: The symptoms were listed as: hypotension, slower than normal heart rates, an increase in the histamine content of the blood, an increase in the activity of the thyroid gland, disruption of the endocrine-hormonal process, alterations in the sensitivity to smell, headaches, irritability, and increased fatigue.

Of the 397 people tested, 146 people tested positive. Not a single one had any symptoms.

"It was like a double knockout punch. The number of positives was shocking, but the fact that 100 percent of the positives had no symptoms was equally shocking," said Dr. Jim O'Connell, president of Boston Health Care for the Homeless Program, which provides medical care at the city's shelters.

O'Connell said that the findings have changed the future of COVID-19 screenings at Boston's homeless shelters.

[ Experts: Homeless population vulnerable to coronavirus ]

"All the screening we were doing before this was based on whether you had a fever above 100.4 and whether you had symptoms," said O'Connell. "How much of the COVID virus is being passed by people who don't even know they have it?"

[Ed. Well, that certainly is "stunning" news. All these people wandering about who have Coronavirus but have no idea! I think the people behind this testing must have been stunned before they went out and did this testing. Shades of poor old Freemason David Abel who wasn't quite sure that there was anything wrong with him when he was banged up on the Diamond Princess cruise ship. Reprise below from 22 February 2020.]

REPRISE FROM FEBRUARY: THE CRUISE SHIP PASSENGER WHO HAD NO IDEA HOW GRAVELY ILL HE WAS

More on the Stranded British Passenger from the "Quarantined" Cruise Ship in Japan. Well, the David Abel story is highly entertaining. He's the poor stranded British passenger from the Diamond Princess cruise ship in Japan. We first heard of him appealing to Richard Branson to bring him and his wife home. Next we hear that he is a crisis actor and Freemason. And to cap it all, here he is in a Japanese hospital looking hale and hearty, having been wheeled in there in a wheelchair "in a very serious condition", suffering from pneumonia after having contracted Coronavirus, according to the BBC (<https://www.bbc.com/news/uk-51594507>). But wait, his Facebook post tells us that he and his wife had caught a cold although they hadn't noticed, and it hasn't "yet" turned into pneumonia, but they do have Coronavirus

(<https://www.facebook.com/photo.php?fbid=10220746726080163&set=a.4307773014683&type=3>). I wonder if they've noticed that they've got Coronavirus, then. Abel's son, however, asserts that his mother has a mild form of pneumonia. I suppose it's all a bit confusing because of the fog of war - sorry, I should say "virus" - well, of course, if there is one. Anyway, turns out Abel doesn't have WiFi access in this Japanese hospital so we can expect a complete recovery soon, given that he's presumably no longer going to be exposed to electromagnetic radiation. And his "condition" is not so serious that the Japanese hospital staff feel that he needs to be hooked up to any respirators, drips or anything. BBC: if you're going to do fake news, you might at least make sure that the actors, the writers and the production team are on the same page. We should report you to WHO or the Chinese authorities for spreading false rumours!

And a couple of days later Abel was sashaying around his hospital room:

And if you want any more evidence that the so-called coronavirus is a psy-op, then look at what laughably passes for newspaper headlines now (https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-8052931/Coronavirus-quarantine-patient-David-Abel-dances-Ive-timelife.html?ito=email\_share\_article-bottom): "British coronavirus patient David Abel dances to 'I've had the time of my life' as he entertains Facebook followers after being admitted to hospital from Diamond Princess cruise liner quarantine". I'll bet he is having the time of his life, too. A free stay in a Japanese hospital with no treatment whatsoever for his alleged pneumonia/flu/coronavirus and a worldwide platform for his embarrassing cavorting and inanities and appeals to Richard Branson, Donald Trump and Uncle Tom Cobbley and all to help him out. It just so happens that he is a freemason and a crisis actor. Suspicious? You bet your life it is!

MOSCOW (Reuters) - President Vladimir Putin said that Russian authorities had the coronavirus crisis under full control and that everything would work out with God's help, even as the country on Sunday registered a record daily rise in cases of the new virus.

Singapore's response to the coronavirus has been held up by many around the world as a model. As of this week, the country has had 266 total cases (with zero deaths), and its infection rate is much slower than the rest of the world.

The first thing that helped with its response was it was ready before the outbreak even occurred because of the SARS outbreak of 2002-03.

It was aware then that its infrastructure wasn't ready for an outbreak of this kind. So, in the years since, isolation hospitals were built, more negative pressure rooms were created and legislation was put in place.

Then, on December 31, when the world first became aware of coronavirus in China, Singapore started to get prepared. By the time the World Health Organisation declared a public health emergency at the end of January, it was ready.

In February, Singapore made it clear again this virus had the potential to have major health, social and economic consequences. We knew that because we saw what happened in China. The virus brought a country of 1.4 billion people basically to its knees. ...

 But, if I had a fever, cough or flu-symptoms, I'd definitely wear one to protect others.

OK. Must remove in the right order. Gloves first. Then face shield. Then cap.
 Then gown. Then feet coverings. Always inside out.

Then, very carefully remove mask straps without touching the mask.
 Lastly, wash hands thoroughly.
 Well, it's important that people around us are completely safe.

We don't need a mask if we're well. Trust me.

 Why?

FROM A CORRESPONDENT

Dr Luc Montagnier has said that the coronavirus was created in Wuhan in an attempt to create a vaccine against HIV with RNA components of HIV. This laboratory was created in 2000 and is specialised in coronaviruses. Montagnier works with mathematician Jean-Claude Perez to analyse the problem coronavirus - they look at the sequences of this new virus. India found this earlier, but was not allowed make it public.

They found some sequence of malaria virus. Perhaps that is why the chloroquine is helpful against this virus. The rapid mutation of this virus is because nature does not like artificial constructs and eliminates them. Montagnier could eliminate them with the right frequency. He knows that these viruses are electric parasites. Now he is no more allowed to go to China, because he spoken the truth.

Do you hear the people sing?
Singing a song of angry men?

There is a life about to start
When tomorrow comes!

Will you join in our crusade?
Who will be strong and stand with me?
Beyond the barricade

Will you give all you can give
So that our banner may advance
Some will fall and some will live
Will you stand up and take your chance?
The blood of the martyrs
Will water the meadows of France!

Do you hear the people sing?
Singing a song of angry men?
It is the music of a people
Who will not be slaves again

Do you hear the people sing
Lost in the valley of the night
It is the music of a people
Who are climbing to the light

For the wretched of the earth
There is a flame that never dies
Even the darkest night will end
And the sun will rise.

They will live again in freedom
In the garden of the Lord
They will walk behind the plough-share
They will put away the sword
The chain will be broken
And all men will have their reward!

Will you join in our crusade?
Who will be strong and stand with me?

8.4.20 - Trump order encourages US to mine the moon: <https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2020/apr/07/trump-mining-moon-executive-order>

[Ed. Mining the moon is illegal under the Moon Agreement of 1979
(<https://www.unoosa.org/oosa/en/ourwork/spacelaw/treaties/intromoon-agreement.html>).

Article 4

1. The exploration and use of the moon shall be the province of all mankind and shall be carried out for the benefit and in the interests of all countries, irrespective of their degree of economic or scientific development. Due regard shall be paid to the interests of present and future generations as well as to the need to promote higher standards of living and conditions of economic and social progress and development in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations.

2. States Parties shall be guided by the principle of co-operation and mutual assistance in all their activities concerning the exploration and use of the moon. International co-operation in pursuance of this Agreement should be as wide as possible and may take place on a multilateral basis, on a bilateral basis or through international intergovernmental organizations.

Executive order says US will oppose any international effort to bar it from removing chunks of moon, Mars or elsewhere in space

The world may be racked by the coronavirus, but Donald Trump has less earthly concerns on his mind, too, after signing an executive order encouraging the US to mine the moon for minerals.

The executive order makes clear that the US doesn't view space as a "global commons", opening the way for the mining of the moon without any sort of international treaty.

"Americans should have the right to engage in commercial exploration, recovery, and use of resources in outer space," the order states, noting that the US had never signed a 1979 agreement known as the moon treaty. This agreement stipulates that any activities in space should conform to international law. In 2015, the US Congress passed a law explicitly allowing American companies to use resources from the moon and asteroids.

According to Trump's executive order, the US will object to any attempt to use international law to hinder its efforts to remove chunks of the moon or, should the opportunity arise, additional mining of Mars and "other celestial bodies".

The Trump administration's new zeal to commence the drilling of the moon is consistent with its enthusiastic support of mining back on Earth. The administration has opened up vast tracts of federal land for oil and gas drilling, with Trump rolling back various environmental laws in an attempt to revive the ailing coal industry.

Not all of the terrestrial drilling leases on offer have been taken up by fossil fuel companies, however, and it is uncertain what interest there is in the private sector to blast into space to mine the moon. The executive order states that the federal government will "require partnership with commercial entities to recover and use resources, including water and certain minerals, in outer space".

Trump has taken a consistent interest in asserting American power in space, forming the Space Force within the US military last year to conduct space warfare where needed. The president appeared to be confused about the composition of space, however, when he tweeted in June that Nasa "should be focused on the much bigger things we are doing, including Mars (of which the Moon is a part)."

It is unclear whether the president actually thinks the moon is a part of Mars but the two are in fact quite far apart – the moon, which orbits Earth, is around 238,000 miles away from our planet while Mars, which is itself a planet, is an average of 140m miles away from Earth.

One of the key issues that the Munich Security Conference looked at is an up and coming significant potential (and very likely) battlefield: space.

In its report, following the conclusion of the event, space is described as always being intertwined with geopolitics and military interests.

Currently, around the globe there are upwards of 2,000 satellites operated by approximately 75 countries.

“This “democratization” has been possible because space has long been viewed as a global commons – a domain that all states rely on and that requires cooperation to use safely.”

Established space powers like the United States have asserted that “space is no longer a sanctuary.”

At the same time, it is specifically the US that has invested three times more in militarizing space than the remainder of the world combined.

The US and France are both hard at work at their respective “space forces.”

NATO declared space an “operational domain.”

But demonstratively gearing up for a “shooting war” in space may invite calamity rather than deter it: in 2007, one Chinese ASAT (anti-satellite) missile test alone spiked the amount of major debris in orbit by nearly 25%. While space agencies track over 20,000 pieces of debris, they estimate there are around 900,000 objects that could cause fatal collisions with satellites. Even a brief ASAT skirmish could therefore cause disastrous fallout for the entire orbital landscape.

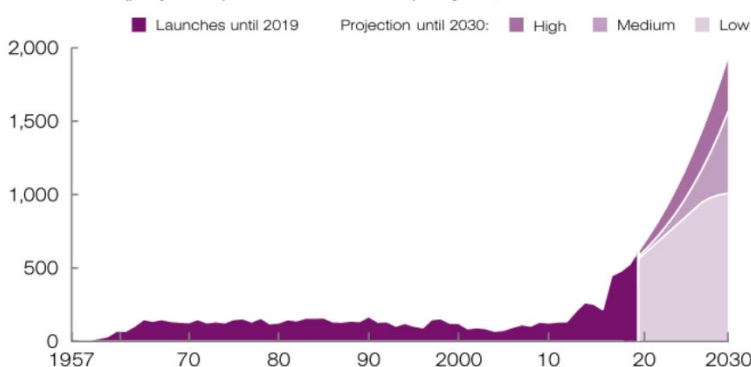

Effective arms control and a space “code of conduct” could head off some of these risks, but new international treaties have long been a nonstarter.

The United States, Russia, and China have been at odds over the basics of space arms control for years. A potential first step is banning destructive ASAT tests, or a consensus of some sort against attacking strategic warning systems in space.

The best outcome would be maintaining space as a “province of all mankind,” in the spirit of the 1967 Outer Space Treaty.

The report also included graphs, presenting the expectations of much higher satellite launches in the future.

Then there’s a graph presenting for the amount of militarization of the space the US has carried out, in comparison to Russia and China. Washington maintains that both Moscow and Beijing are attempting to rapidly militarize space and that is why it is needed to confront them.

And finally, the graph presents the number of objects in space that are being tracked, such as debris, and how they've spiked after an incident in space, or an event such as the Chinese ASAT test.

12.3.20 - SpaceX "StarLink" satellite constellation reveals itself as tool of US military:

<https://southfront.org/spacex-starlink-satellite-constellation-to-cooperate-with-us-military/>

Elon Musk's SpaceX is hard at work launching satellites for its StarLink program.

In total, it will launch over 4,000 to low-Earth orbit where the mega-constellation will provide high-speed, low-latency internet to just about any location on Earth.

The FCC has given the green light for SpaceX to launch up to 12,000 satellites and paperwork has been filed with an international regulator that could open the door for over 40,000 satellites in total.

Almost immediately after the first batch of 60 Starlink space routers launched last year, many were surprised by how reflective the satellites were, moving across the twilight sky in long, single-file trains, increasing UFO sightings and mucking up a lot of astronomical observations.

"We'll take corrective action if it's above zero (impacts)," Musk said. "We're running a bunch of experiments."

The idea is to have the satellites allegedly serve an entirely humanitarian and civilian purpose – provide high-speed internet.

However, that appears to be entirely contrary to the truth.

In February 2020, the US Air Force and SpaceX announced that they would collaborate for a live fire exercise on April 8th.

Air Force acquisition chief William Roper told reporters at the Pentagon that the Air Force and SpaceX will conduct an event on April 8, together with other branches of the U.S. military, that will see SpaceX Starlink satellites link up with multiple armed forces systems in a "massive" live fire exercise.

"SpaceX has been a great industry partner for us," Roper said. "They are very excited and we are excited to learn more about their satellites through the demonstration."

The demonstration will reportedly involve shooting down a drone and a cruise missile and will take place at several different sites including Marine Corps Air Station Yuma in Arizona to Eglin Air Force Base in Florida. The massive tests will also include ground forces, submarines, ships, and a variety of space-based assets.

The live fire exercise will be part of a larger test of the Advanced Battle Management System (ABMS), a new communications ecosystem designed to enable Joint All-Domain Command and Control (JADC2), allowing U.S. forces and allies to coordinate military operations in real-time across all domains, such as sea, land, air, space and cyber operations.

Roper said that his "hope for this event, unlike the first event, is that we have an equal measure of things that fail for things that succeeded."

Roper has also said that the new ABMS system will help replace the aging, rickety fleet of E-8C Joint Surveillance Target Attack Radar System (JSTARS) command aircraft.

It will also add new capabilities that leverage the latest in machine learning, or artificial intelligence, to better predict what types of information users want from the system and more prominently push that information to them.

"We've come so far in ABMS that we realize that it's bigger than just replacing the capability that JSTARS provides," Roper said. "If you get ABMS right, you've just built the military's 'internet of things.'" That's super exciting."

Additionally, SpaceX will help the US military in Arctic communications.

The U.S. Air Force conducted initial tests, outside the Arctic, using commercial satellites. During a recent exercise a U.S. Air Force AC-130 plane connected with SpaceX's high-bandwidth Starlink satellites. Future demonstrations involving Iridium and OneWeb satellite constellations are planned.

► Electronic Warfare and Military Communications Riding the Millimeter-wave

by Asif Anwar | Apr 22, 2016

Electronic Warfare and military communications will continue to be a pivotal resource in-theatre with future architectural designs dictated by factors such as the need to optimise SWaP-C (size, weight, power, cost), changing demands from in-theatre and the ability to make effective use of spectrum which is an increasingly limited resource.

For military communications, the use of millimetre-wave technologies has been driven by satellite communications. Conventional frequencies used for military satellite communications have traditionally been segmented along UHF, L-band and C-band with X-band frequencies and Ku-band representing the highest frequencies of operation for military satellite communications.

In 2014-2015, Strategy Analytics estimated that these traditional frequency bands accounted for 77% of military satellite terminal communications across the land, air and sea domains. As use across these frequencies has increased over the past 20 years, the available spectrum has shrunk and the resulting cost of military satellite communications has increased in line with increasing capacity constraints. As a result, defense departments have increasingly relied on leasing or sharing commercial spectrum to keep up with the demand for connectivity.

The demand for spectrum continued to increase especially in asymmetric theatres where intelligence enable through ISR missions enabled using UAS platforms also rose, driving additional demand for BLOS datalinks. Consequently, military satellite communications have had to use expensive high functionality solutions over X-band as well as Ku-band.

Millimeter-wave frequencies at Ka-band started to underpin usage providing another avenue to meet the demand for military satellite connectivity, bringing a number of benefits including:

- Higher upload and download data rates
- Better spectral efficiencies
- Less congestion in the spectrum band
- Lower bandwidth costs for the user

This focus on millimetre-wave frequencies will increase over the next ten years with Ka-band forecast to account for almost 30% of the military satellite communications by 2024.

However, the move to Ka-band will not translate into a move away from existing infrastructure so future military satellite terminals will increasingly focus on being able to support multiple bands, usually by having interchangeable BUCs [block-up convertor] and LNBs [low noise block] [both of these devices BUC and LNB are used in VSAT transmission systems for relaying voice/data via satellite to larger portion of the earth] to allow the user to take advantage of the respective satellite signal frequency available at a given location. This will translate into multi-band terminals that house multiple RF chains designed to handle the respective signals. At the same time, the emphasis on enabling the warfighter to have COTM [communications-on-the-move] capabilities will maintain pressures to have systems that support portability in terms of both size and power consumption.

This has already translated into moves by companies such as Advantech Wireless towards GaAs-based solutions, and this is now being supplemented by trends towards GaN-based SSPB/BUC [<https://www.rfwireless-world.com/Terminology/Difference-between-GaN-and-GaAs-Power-Amplifiers.html>] products that enable higher power, wider bandwidth and higher frequency performance while also allowing terminal sizes to shrink. Moving forwards, it is conceivable that the capabilities of GaN-based RF will enable wideband solutions to cover a range of frequencies without compromising on performance and thus enable satellite communication terminals to shrink even further.

Of course, as millimetre-wave frequency use at Ka-band becomes more prolific (especially as the commercial market also looks to take advantage), congestion in this spectrum will also increase. We can expect moves towards higher frequencies to be initiated with Q- and V-bands [these are higher mmwaves] being the next primary targets for consideration. Northrop Grumman introduced the Q-band APN167 GaN MMIC in 2012 offering 3.5W of output power and 20 dB of linear gain for the military SatCom sector, as well as other applications.

The need for wideband performance across the spectrum including millimetre-wave frequencies is a core requirement for electronic warfare. US senators recently introduced the Electronic Warfare Enhancement Act [\*see note at end*] to refocus US EW efforts, finally recognizing the fact that the ability to control and make effective use of spectrum is essential to enable operations in a spectrum environment that is increasingly congested and contested.

Traditionally, the role of the EW system has been segmented with the Electronic Attack (EA) or Electronic Warfare Support (EWS) system designed to monitor, protect and mitigate specific RF operations, e.g. communications or radar. With communications jamming and COMINT/DF requirements typically not extending beyond S-band, while radar jammers could be required to go as high as Ka-band if designed to disable missile threats that featured radar seekers.

Trends driving spending on the Electronic Warfare (EW) sector will be underpinned by the need to control an ever increasing complex spectrum environment, countering modern frequency agile radar systems and network-based IP-centric communications in conventional symmetric warfare scenarios, as well as combatting asymmetric threats from improvised explosive devices. In both cases, the frequencies that need to be combatted are expanding and in the case of radar systems, the frequency agility will negate the traditional use of threat libraries, so future systems will need to employ flexible wideband materials that can enable cognitive analysis of the threat environment to effectively control the electromagnetic spectrum.

RF-based Electronic Attack (EA) system design for applications such as radar, communications and RCIED (radio controlled improvised explosive device) jamming see an increasing emphasis towards systems that can support multi-band and/or wideband operation to combat the increasingly complex spectrum environment. While the need for high power RF transmitters for applications such as long-range jamming will mean vacuum tube-based solutions will continue to dominate, programs such as the US-based Next Generation Jammer (NGJ) and Surface Electronic Warfare Improvement Program (SEWIP) will point to a future direction of architectural design that will be underpinned by AESAs and leverage the advantages of wideband materials such as GaN and digital RF memory (DRFM) capabilities.

For RF-based EWS systems such as RWRs (Radar Warning Receivers), DF/COMINT (Direction Finding and Communications Intelligence) and ESM/ELINT (Electronic Support Measures and Electronic Signals Intelligence) this will be underpinned by an emphasis on direct and fast digital synthesis of the RF signals across the full breadth of the frequency spectrum, effectively digitizing the RF as close to the antenna signal as possible. This will drive demand for wideband solid state RF component technologies that can be coupled with higher performing wider bandwidth digital receivers.

Strategy Analytics will be in San Francisco where we will host our annual analyst event at IMS 2016 to share more insights into how the next generation of military (as well as commercial) systems will "ride the millimeter-wave". Before that, we'll be attending the AOC Electronic Warfare Europe 2016 conference taking place on May 10-12 in Rotterdam, The Netherlands, where I look forward to discussing the challenges that will shape the future outlook for electronic warfare markets.

► RF and Millimeter-wave Technologies Underpinning Smart Weapons Sector Growth

by Asif Anwar | Jun 21, 2016

Strategy Analytics forecasts the global Smart Weapons (SW) market will grow to over $41.8 billion in 2025, representing a CAGR of 3.7%. A renewed emphasis on advancing Smart Weapon capabilities to counter evolving threats such as A2/AD (anti-access Area Denial) envelopes, combined with on-going demand from asymmetric wars and continued force modernizations in emerging countries is driving spending across the full range of Smart Weapons. The Strategy Analytics Advanced Defense Systems (ADS) service series of Smart Weapon (SW) forecasts, outline global defense expenditure trends segmented on a regional basis before breaking out the expected spend on Smart Weapons incorporating subsystems, hardware, support and related services across the land, air and naval domains.

- The squeeze on military budgets particularly in the Western countries as well as technology advances are translating to adoption of fewer but more capable new Smart Weapon platforms across domains.

- The total number of Smart Weapon shipments is forecast to grow at a CAGR of 3.5% through 2025 to reach 162,943 units.
- The associated market for Smart Weapon subsystems such as navigation and guidance, target seekers, datalinks, fuzes etc. will grow from $9.3 billion in 2015 to $13.4 billion...

... RF and millimeterwave technologies underpin a range of Smart Weapon subsystems enabling navigation and guidance, fuzing, target seekers and this will support a number of the key trends driving towards enhanced capability platforms over the next ten years. These include advances in datalinks, guidance and multi-mode target seeking systems enabling networked and automated missiles. With BLOS (Beyond line of sight) datalinks, MMW (Millimeterwave) radar target seeker, digital processors and advanced target recognition algorithms, missiles are increasingly able to communicate among themselves, change course with the position of a shifting target and reassign themselves to new targets.

The Navigation and Guidance System (NGS) subsystem on smart weapons guides the projectile throughout its flight course to the target area. RF-based systems include the use of GPS, which provide precise and cost-effective NGS without the need for pre-recorded information (unlike Terrain Referenced Navigation (TRN) systems). However, the propensity for enemy interference/jamming, and limited performance in tunnels/restricted areas means that GPS-based guidance is often used in conjunction with other NGS systems.

However, it is radar-based systems that represent the largest use of RF/MMW-based technologies in the NGS subsystem. Most SAMs (surface to air missiles) and long range SSMs (surface to surface missiles including both ballistic and cruise missile including anti-ship missiles) use radar as the primary means of guidance; collectively radar-based SWs represent the second largest segment of the SW market. Radar guidance can be either Active or semi-active. In active radar guidance the missile contains a radar transceiver whereas in semi-active radar guidance the missile uses only a receiver to find and track the target.

- Semi-active radar guidance enables “fire and forget” capability as the missile works autonomously during the terminal phase.
- Using an active radar transmitter as the target seeker means the launch platform does not need to guide the missile anymore and is free to conduct other maneuvers.

A Target Seeker (TS) subsystem, also sometimes known as a Terminal Seeker, is normally found in medium to long range missiles, and used in combination with the NGS, for better identification and striking of the target using Active Radar (MMW), Laser, IR/IIR (Infrared/Inverse Infrared) and Acoustic/magnetic seeker technologies. Radar-based target seeker subsystems account for almost 50 percent of the target seeker subsystem market for smart weapons.

Moving forwards, directed energy weapons (DEW) will fundamentally change how future battles are fought while also providing significant savings on expensive conventional munitions, particularly in the air and missile defence (AMD) role. There are simultaneous developments going on around electromagnetic pulsed weapons and high power microwave (HPM) payloads, as well as Laser weapons systems. Strategy Analytics predicts that these weapons will begin to be part of an advanced military's arsenal over the next ten years. We however envisage that introduction of such disruptive weapons will require fundamental adaptations in organization, training, concepts of operation and doctrine across all domains of the armed forces, resulting in a slower initial uptake of the systems and maintaining the current demand for RF and millimeter-wave technologies across navigation and guidance and terminal seeker applications.

► What can 5G learn from the Military Communications Market? (Excerpts)

by Asif Anwar | Jan 22, 2018 A range of crossover technologies will become common across both commercial and military communications networks and devices

Boston, MA - January 22, 2018 - Software defined architecture, solid-state technology, radio-satellite communications-wireless network integration as well as communicating voice and data/video simultaneously and securely in an increasingly complex spectrum environment will underpin growth for military communications systems and the associated component and semiconductor demand. The Strategy Analytics Advanced Defense Systems (ADS) service report, “Military Communications Market Outlook 2016 - 2026,” forecasts spending on global military communications systems and services will grow to over $36.7 billion in 2026, a compound annual growth rate of 3.5%.

Military communications operate under an umbrella of heterogeneous networks that enable the provision of interoperable voice, video and data services across a global environment, segmented according to security policies, transmission requirements and the individual needs of the end user.

In terms of the networked battlespace, this can be summarized as:

- Upper level networking, consisting of infrastructure and networking components;
- Mid-level networking providing high capacity backhaul;
- Support to the tactical edge for end-users and sensors

"In a similar fashion, 5G serves as an aggregator technology that will encompass a range of network types and technologies to serve both traditional voice, video and data requirements to the end-user, as well as opening up capabilities to enable connectivity across devices including vehicles, machines, sensors and devices," notes Eric Higham, North American Director for ADS [Advanced Defense Systems].

Phased arrays, beam forming, millimeter-wave frequencies, satellite communications, Gallium Nitride, duplex communications and shared spectrum access are amongst the crossover technologies that will become common across both commercial and military communications.

Note: EM weapons bill 2016 (full pdf at congress.gov) includes "progress on increasing innovative electromagnetic spectrum warfighting methods". There is no specific mention of satellites or mmwaves; a committee was tasked with creating a strategy.

2.5.06 – Article: Beyond Hope By Derrick Jensen: <https://orionmagazine.org/article/beyond-hope/>

... When we realize the degree of agency we actually do have, we no longer have to "hope" at all. We simply do the work. We make sure salmon survive. We make sure prairie dogs survive. We make sure grizzlies survive. We do whatever it takes.

When we stop hoping for external assistance, when we stop hoping that the awful situation we're in will somehow resolve itself, when we stop hoping the situation will somehow not get worse, then we are finally free — truly free — to honestly start working to resolve it. I would say that when hope dies, action begins.

PEOPLE SOMETIMES ASK ME, "If things are so bad, why don't you just kill yourself?" The answer is that life is really, really good. I am a complex enough being that I can hold in my heart the understanding that we are really, really fucked, and at the same time that life is really, really good. I am full of rage, sorrow, joy, love, hate, despair, happiness, satisfaction, dissatisfaction, and a thousand other feelings. We are really fucked. Life is still really good.

Many people are afraid to feel despair. They fear that if they allow themselves to perceive how desperate our situation really is, they must then be perpetually miserable. They forget that it is possible to feel many things at once. They also forget that despair is an entirely appropriate response to a desperate situation. Many people probably also fear that if they allow themselves to perceive how desperate things are, they may be forced to do something about it. ...

<https://phibetaiota.net/2020/04/robert-steele-holistic-appraisal-of-health-solution-for-virus/>

Argyrol has been in clinical use for over 118 years and was in hospitals and pharmacies, first aid kits and most home medicine cabinets until about 25 years ago.

Argyrol is immediate to manufacture and market in all jurisdictions [according to Pat Smith who was the Glaxo-Smith Klein Technical Director for South Africa].

In it's heyday Argyrol had multiple headquarters in the United States, Great Britain, Australia and South Africa; to all appearance Argyrol was ubiquitous. Argyrol ships through customs globally without impediments.

Argyrol is recognized as not new nor alternative and for that reason, can be used off-label [being tested now in Kenya against HIV by doctors and public health personnel at their request].

Christine the owner has used this drug personally to nebulization four years. The dosage was over 2.5mLs daily. The same dosage amount after four years was administered rectally for an additional year.

Daily administration of Argyrol resulted in no heavy metal toxicity, no staining of my mucosa of my throat and absolutely no other reactions of discomfort or irritation to rectal tissue from daily administration of Argyrol at all. She was monitored by her physicians with blood tests and PET scans with no irregularities observed.

The only first reaction was the Jarisch Herxheimer (Healing crisis) which subsided within a few days.

Were there to be bottles of OTC Argyrol Anti-Infective in the hospital pharmacies for respiratory wards, in the pharmacies and everywhere else as there was less than 25 years ago, there would be no global fear gripping individuals without ANYTHING to militate against pandemic pathogens engaging with their bodies on their mucous membranes, for God's sake and definitely no reason to shut down the entire global economy for 'the pestilence that stalks in darkness' noted in Psalm 91:6. How do we look after 25 years without OTC Argyrol? I rest my case.

Tom Atlee, the author of this book, gets credit for defining a "bottom up" approach that is sensible and implementable. This book focuses on what comes next, after everyone gets tired of just "meeting up" or "just blogging." This book is about collective intelligence for the common good, and it is a very fine book.

From: The Handbook for the New Paradigm:

"Remember that we are not to consider the actions or the reactions of the other side. We are going to be dreaming within little known possibilities; therefore all things are possible. The contingent plans of the other side can only work in their known reality. You are going to be setting up a reality that is far outside anything that they have even considered. It is this level of creativity that we are striving to encourage you to reach...Remember your imagination is the entry point to the "mind of God" which is infinite potentiality. The invocation of His Presence when "two or more are present," is true to a degree you limited ones have not yet perceived."

11.19 - Trump creates new department to ban mandatory vaccines:
<https://cairnsnews.org/2018/11/19/trump-creates-new-department-to-ban-mandatory-vaccines/>
from News Punch

President Trump has created a new division within the Health and Human Services Office for Civil Rights, with the express purpose of banning mandatory vaccinations across the country, and ensuring citizens have a right to choose their own healthcare.

With the establishment of the Conscience and Religious Freedom Division division on Thursday, Trump has laid the groundwork to dismantle each and every vaccine mandate across the country. Big Pharma's chokehold on the nation's health has been released.

If you don't think this new division at the Health and Human Services Office is a big deal, it's time to think again.

The Conscience and Religious Freedom Division gives many different groups a big tent under which to fight for our constitutional rights. Christians and libertarians, as well as freethinkers and people of other religious faiths, have a common interest in fighting against Big Pharma's corrupt health establishment.

Mainstream media are desperate to keep this news quiet. They don't want you to know that the president is working to ensure American citizens have a right to choose their own healthcare.

Pharmaceutical companies provide mainstream media outlets with a huge percentage of their advertising revenue. Big pharmaceutical companies actually spend far more on advertising than research. We are talking hundreds of billions of dollars.

Here's why this is such a BIG DEAL

Per BolenReport: The House Majority Leader, Kevin McCarthy (R – California) is one of the key figures who got this project over the line. Do you think he is unaware of the draconian mandatory vaccine law in California which took away religious and philosophical (conscience) exemptions?

This new division at HHS is a home run for all those who believe in liberty and health freedom.

In a press release put by the HHS Office for Civil Rights, Director Roger Severino said,
"Law protecting religious freedom and conscience rights are just empty words on paper if they aren't enforced. No one should be forced to choose between helping sick people and living by one's deepest moral or religious convictions, and the new division will help guarantee that victims of unlawful discrimination find justice. For too long, governments big and small have treated conscience claims with hostility instead of protection, but change is coming and it begins here and now."

In an article for TownHall, House Majority Leader, Kevin McCarthy was very explicit.

"In the past this office sent the message, now is not the time for freedom, it is time for you to conform. What a difference one year makes."

Dr. Everett Piper of Oklahoma Wesleyan University echoed these comments and brought a laugh to the group by noting what a difference it was to be thanking Health and Human Services rather than suing them.

[\[RELATED: CDC Doctor: 'Disastrous' Flu Shot Causing Deadly Flu Epidemic\]](#)

The acting Health and Human Services Secretary, Eric Hargan, also had some remarkable words:

"For too long too many of these healthcare practitioners have been bullied and discriminated against because of their religious beliefs and moral convictions leaving many of them to wonder whether they have a future in our healthcare system. When faithful Americans are bullied out of the public square and out of public service, when bigotry is allowed to flourish, we all lose."

The new website for the Conscience and Religious Freedom Division even has a convenient portal to file a complaint and they are encouraging anybody who feels their religious rights or conscience have been violated to file a complaint.

What about all those California parents living under the mandatory childhood vaccine law? Aren't their religious and conscience rights being violated?

President Trump has given us a tool to use against tyranny. My dear brothers and sisters, it is time to pick up this weapon and use it against our common enemy.

Certificat d'expertise des vaccins contenant de l'aluminium

La promulgation par la FDA, en 1989, reprise par l'OMS, en 1996, de la Dose minimale Toxique de l'aluminium alimentaire, par voie orale, déclare :

Dose minimale Toxique de l'aluminium par voie orale :
1 mg / kg de poids corporel / jour ***

Il s'agit d'un commandement de l'OMS, au-dessus de toutes les lois, qui interdit formellement l'administration à l'homme de tous les vaccins contenant de l'aluminium. Car cette Dose minimale Toxique de l'aluminium par voie orale a été calculée à partir de la valeur de la Dose minimale Toxique égale à 0,01 mg d'aluminium / kg de poids, dans l'organisme, pour une absorption par voie orale (passage du tractus gastro-intestinal dans l'organisme) égale à 1 p. cent de la dose d'aluminium administrée par voie orale. En conséquence :

Dose minimale Toxique de l'aluminium dans les vaccins :
0,01 mg / kg de poids corporel

APPENDIX: SYMPTOMS

16.4.20 – Dr. Sircus - ICU doctors know best: <https://drsircus.com/coronavirus/icu-doctors-know-best/>

John Whyte, MD, Chief Medical Officer at WebMD said, "We have been seeing a high mortality for patients once they are put on a ventilator. Part of the challenge is that we don't always have enough data early-on in an epidemic. That's why it is important to talk to physicians on the front-lines and hear about what they are seeing. This creates more discussion and debate in the clinical and scientific community to help us determine the most effective treatment strategies.”

The ICU doctor in the video below (which has gone viral) from New York suggests that we are treating the wrong disease with the wrong measures. WebMD published, “As doctors treat more patients who are severely ill from COVID-19, they’re noticing differences in how their lungs are damaged. Some patients coming to the hospital have very low oxygen levels in their blood, but you wouldn’t necessarily know it from talking to them. [Check out what 60 GHz does – hypoxia. See Federal Communications Commission Office Of Engineering

FCC 1997: “For current technology the important oxygen absorption peak occurs at 60 GHz.”

And Technology Bulletin Number 70 July, 1997 – graphic below] They don’t seem starved of oxygen. They may be a little confused. But they aren’t struggling to breathe.”

“When doctors take pictures of their lungs — either with a CT scanner or an X-ray machine — those also look fairly healthy. The lungs may have a few areas of cloudiness and crazing, indicating spots of damage from their infection, but most of the lung is black, indicating that it is filled with air.”
